COMPROMISE PLAN ON AAA SUITS BAN FORCED IN SENATE

George Amendment, To Allow Processors Who Shouldered Tax To Sue, Offered To End Threat of Long Deadlock.

HARRISON PROTEST STOPS FINAL VOTE

Administration Leader Says Clause Will Make Collection "Impossible" Through Lack of Proof.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—A compromise plan on the AAA bill prohibiting suits to recover processing taxes today forced a compromise in the senate.

A last-minute protest of an administration member, however, stalled off final action on its acceptance until tomorrow.

The compromise, advanced by Senator George, democrat, Georgia, and tentatively accepted by the administration, would permit suits only where the processor proved he had not transferred the tax to the consumer or the producer but had shouldered it himself.

The battle opened up after the senate had rejected, 41 to 34, a proposal by Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, to restore to the bill the export debenture provision approved by the house but eliminated by the senate.

The Connally amendment would have authorized the secretary of agriculture to use 30 per cent of the tariff revenues to finance export of surplus farm commodities and to build up domestic consumption.

Thoroughly displeased with the compromise tax amendment, Majority Leader Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, branded it as "dangerous" but said the senate appeared disposed to accept it.

It is a bad compromise, he said off the record, "because it means that anybody who swears he paid a tax and didn't pass it on would get it back. How are you going to prove he didn't pass it on?"

The prolonged debate on the bill convinced Robinson a Saturday session would be necessary to dispose of the measure.

Scores of suits already have appeared on court dockets throughout the country, part of them seeking restraining orders to stop processing tax collection. A circuit court sitting at Boston yesterday ruled adversely.

Led by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who branded the tax suit prohibition as a "libel upon free government," members from both sides of the chamber blasted away at it.

In defense of it, Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, majority leader, declared the provision was to prevent processors from "milking" larger sums from the government in the way of recovery of taxes which assertedly they had already passed on to the consumer.

Action on the recovery suit provision was deferred in an attempt to work out a compromise.

Two Policemen Face Trial Today For Killing Children's Pet Dogs

Warrants Suorn Out After Judge Moore Denies Injunction To Stop Sturdivant From Ordering Death for Dogs of All Kinds.

Warrants charging malicious mischief were sworn out against two Atlanta policemen late yesterday afternoon after Judge Virlyn B. Moore in Fulton Superior Court had denied a permanent injunction restraining Chief T. O. Sturdivant from ordering his officers to shoot stray and unlicensed dogs indiscriminately in the war to curb rabies.

Patrolmen K. C. Wooster and R. C. Tuggle were named in the warrants, which were sworn out by S. B. Holcomb, of 1180 Holley street, who charged the officers shot and killed the two pet dogs of his daughters, Elizabeth and Evelyn Holcomb.

Judge Luther Z. Rosser Jr. set the case for hearing at 10 o'clock this morning in municipal court, over which he is presiding.

Holcomb, in an affidavit presented in the hearing of the injunction plea before Judge Moore, said his daughter Elizabeth had her dog in her arms sitting on his porch when Officers Wooster and Tuggle came. The policemen took both pet dogs and told the girls they were taking the animals to the Atlanta Humane Society home, Holcomb stated.

Next afternoon both dogs and another belonging to a neighbor were found shot to death in a vacant lot a short distance from Holcomb's residence, he said. Elizabeth and Evelyn both begged the officers not to take their loved pets, it was said, and after the officers had gone, they telephoned the Humane Society they would immediately have the dogs licensed and inoculated. The girls did not know their pets had been killed until their bodies were found, Holcomb declared.

He is represented by Walter A. Jennings, lawyer, who sought the permanent injunction against Chief Sturdivant.

Judge Moore denied the injunction but he declared that the chief of police and his subordinates are not authorized under the law, to wilfully kill any dog without a just reason for doing so. He ordered, however, that the dogs be kept in the pound.

LOKES BARS LOANS, HALTS ALL WORK WITHIN LOUISIANA

Secretary Says State Won't Get Nine Million Until Huey Repeals Law Giving Him Full Control

NEW ORLEANS, July 18.—(AP)—The national administration struck sharply at the domain of Senator Huey P. Long today by halting all PWA projects in this state, but the Louisiana "dictator" scored a local victory through annexation of 4,000 New Orleans sewerage and water board employees to his political machine.

The attack from Washington was launched by Secretary Lokes, who announced bluntly that not only would present works be held up, but also new projects would be initiated in Louisiana unless state laws regulating expenditure of federal funds are repealed.

Long is local victim. The day's developments found Long himself traveling between the two battlegrounds. En route from here to the national capital by train, the senator was informed during a brief stop in Atlanta of the water board's capitulation.

"It looks like the job is about up in New Orleans," he commented, referring to his prolonged struggle to oust Mayor Walmesley's forces.

Only yesterday he had reiterated an earlier statement that, if PWA projects were blocked, the administration in Louisiana, both Lokes and President Roosevelt "can go slap down to hell." He also served notice upon Walmesley that he would lay down a verbal barrage on Roosevelt and Lokes from the floor of the senate Friday.

Will Not Compromise. In issuing his ultimatum to Louisiana, Lokes insisted he would make no compromise. He already has directed this state's PWA supervisor to receive no more applications, and said that two days ago he had refused to listen to Dr. James M. Smith, president of Louisiana State University, who guaranteed there would be no interference by the state bond and tax commission with PWA projects.

Lokes said he was "laying down no new rule" in the Louisiana case and Louisiana's loss of federal money would be a severe blow. He explained that the law to which the administration objected had been passed in 1935 of the Louisiana legislature.

Must Repeal Law. Lokes said he would be satisfied with nothing less than repeal of the law because any guarantee of non-interference would mean "we are carrying on projects by the grace of a non-federal agency."

Among the projects was a $2,400,000 allotment to the New Orleans water board which passed to control of Long's forces in 1934. The board was the legally contested, but was accomplished when the city commission council's minority, Mayor Walmesley and Commissioner Fred A. Exchart, voted with the 11-member majority of the board to accept the terms of the state civil service commission.

Both Walmesley and Exchart said they voted with the majority to "give the 4,000 employees work" and their action should not be construed as a "surrender" to Senator Long.

First Bale of Cotton Is Ginned at Cordele

CORDELE, Ga., July 18.—(AP)—Cordele's first bale of cotton of this season's crop and the first bale in Georgia so far as is known here, was ginned today.

It came from the farm of J. W. Cannon, Crisp county planter. It will be shipped to Savannah.

Enigma Unsolved. Herron, with a ready grin, denied any connection with the burning of the original Western Union records of telegrams sent from Warren. That enigma, with which the present phase of the investigation began, remained an unsolved puzzle.

LITTLE HOPE SEEN OF QUICK SOLUTION IN HIGHWAY FIGHT

Talmadge and MacDonald Both Refuse To Abandon Position on Ball's Ferry Bridge Job.

The highway impasse was jammed tighter than ever yesterday and although President Roosevelt assured Governor Talmadge that Georgia's $19,000,000 share of the federal road fund was to be "hung on the hook," it became increasingly apparent it would stay "hung" and that the state has little chance of realizing on it in the immediate future.

As the Governor flew homeward Director Thomas H. MacDonald, of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, said in Washington that the next move was up to Talmadge and on his arrival here the Governor made it plain he isn't going to move.

When two parties are deadlocked and neither of them will budge the deadlock continues. Such is the highway situation.

To Let Contracts Today. Meanwhile, the State Highway Board completed plans for a $1,500,000 letting today. The projects, more than a score in number, will be submitted to bidders with the understanding that if the federal government does not approve them they are to be paid for out of state funds.

A number of important roads and bridges are to be included in the letting. They are to be paid for out of a $4,500,000 cash account to the credit of the highway department in the state treasury.

In Washington Representatives Cox, of Canilla, and Vinson, of Milldeville, both foes of the Governor, were expected to reach the courts today.

The first, the petition of the Georgia Public Service Commission in the federal court to enjoin the Interstate Commerce Commission from cancelling its rate reduction order of last July was ready for filing but the action was postponed until today because of the absence from the city of Chairman J. P. Wilhoit, of the public service commission, and Attorney-General M. J. Thomas.

The second suit is the petition of "certain citizens" in the state courts to enjoin State Treasurer George R. Hamilton from paying to the regents of the University of Georgia $250,000 on a special building appropriation, it being the plan of the petitioners to contend that the appropriation cannot be paid until the general appropriation for the year have been paid in full.

Chairman Wilhoit made formal announcement of the commission's suit before he left the city Wednesday night and the petition was to have been filed yesterday, but Judge Yeomans was called to Crawfordville yesterday morning at about 10 o'clock for Governor Talmadge on the Alexander Stephens memorial program.

The suit against State Treasurer Hamilton is being drawn by Attorney Jack Savage and H. Bond Almond. According to Savage the petition will contend that the full appropriations must be paid before a special appropriation may be paid. Savage said Almond was preparing the petition and that the names of the citizens in whose behalf it is to be filed would not be made public until the filing.

It was cited yesterday that Mr. Almond, a member of the general assembly from Fulton county, voted for the appropriation to be now paid to attack an attorney in the courts.

State Treasurer Hamilton said he was prepared to answer the suit when and if it is filed. He said it probably would be defended by Chairman Marion Smith of the board of regents and the state department of law.

In Vinson District. The Ball's Ferry bridge is in Congressmen Vinson's district. He is convinced Director MacDonald's construction should be given preference because it is on what the federal bureau terms a "farm-to-market" road.

Bank Suspensions at Lowest Point Since World War, Survey Shows

Only Fourteen Institutions Closed This Year and Only Sixty-eight of 4,500 Kept Shut After "Holiday" Have Yet To Open Their Doors.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—A report of the comptroller of the currency for July 1, showed that deposits of approximately $152,000,000 have been placed in liquidation. Meanwhile, the thawing of frozen deposits has gone on, aided by the operations of federal credit relief agencies—Home Owners' Loan Corporation, Reconstruction Corporation and farm credit organizations.

No National Banks. Of the 4,500 banks with deposits of approximately $420,000,000 which were not licensed to resume business after the banking holiday in March, 1933, only 68 at the end of May had not been licensed or turned over to liquidators. Latest figures of the Federal Reserve Board further showed that no national banks were included among those remaining unlicensed.

EMPEROR PLEDGES HIS LIFE'S BLOOD FOR INDEPENDENCE

Wild Enthusiasm Greeted King's Appeal for All To "Fight to Death" in "Sacred" Cause of Liberty; Audience Weeps.

TRIBESMEN PLEDGE LOYALTY TO DEATH

Eden Declares Britain Will Back Ethiopia's Rights as a Member of League of Nations.

By The Associated Press. ADDIS ABABA, July 17.—Emperor Haile Selassie, addressing parliament, challenges Italy; pledges life for country; wild enthusiasm stirred.

LONDON.—Diplomats take emperor's speech as tantamount to mobilization order; British speed up peace efforts.

ROME.—Duce tells nations military preparations in Eritrea in good shape; east African command reports water supply plentiful.

NAPLES.—S. S. Ganges sails with more than 1,000 soldiers; seven other steamers being loaded.

GENEVA.—League expects small states to demand protection of Ethiopia's integrity; Ethiopia adheres to international Red Cross convention.

(Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.) ADDIS ABABA, July 17.—Emperor Haile Selassie today called his people—men and women, Christians and Mohammedans, young and old—to fight to the death against Italy in the "sacred" cause of Ethiopian independence.

Many in the vast audience of parliamentarians, soldiers and public wept unrestrainedly as the emperor, asserting those who died for their country were "happy mortals," said: "Your sovereign, now speaking, will be among you unhesitatingly to spill all his blood for independence."

Prepared to Resist. Challenging Benito Mussolini and his land to respect Ethiopia's independence and territorial integrity, the emperor nevertheless looked the possibility of war squarely in the face and told the world Ethiopia was prepared to resist to the last man.

He paraphrased fascism's famous "better to live one day as a lion than 100 years as a lamb" when he told Ethiopians they were better to die free than to live without liberty.

Scores of wild enthusiasm, both in the parliament, where he spoke, and in public squares outside, greeted the emperor's speech, in which he repeatedly invoked God's help for the Ethiopian cause.

Reports were heard in the capital that Addis Ababa would be evacuated immediately if hostilities should break out, through fear of Italian bombing planes.

While members of parliament, tribal chieftains and leaders of his army listened, the King of Kings and the Conquering Lion of Judah said: "God, Our Protector."

"God will be our fortress and shield and the modern armaments of aggressors can not deter our duty which is sacred for Ethiopian independence."

HUGE LOBBY BARED FOR ARMY'S TRADE

Firm Spends $500,000. Agent Tells of Contract Getting and Whisky.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—A vivid tale of huge spending to promote business with the War Department and of attempts to sell army equipment to Ethiopia unfolded today before the house military committee.

From Chairman McSwain, democrat, South Carolina, the committee heard that Joseph Silverman Jr., who buys and sells surplus army supplies, had spent almost $500,000 over several years to build up his business with the department.

Wants Selassie's "Dough." And from Silverman himself the members received testimony of efforts to sell to Emperor Haile Selassie, of Ethiopia, some of the uniforms and other supplies he had purchased from the army.

Silverman said he was not interested in stirring up war between Italy and Ethiopia, but he had no objection to taking some of the emperor's "dough."

He conceded, also, that companies controlled by himself and his brothers had dickered with Bolivia and Guatemala. Then he remarked "You can't kill a man with a wool coat."

The committee learned from McSwain that Silverman had a contract with the War Department effected in the lobby of a Washington hotel by Frederick

2 ADMIT BURNING UTILITY RECORDS

Associated Gas & Electric Records Destroyed To Prevent Probe Findings.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—Hesitating and reluctant, two subordinates of the Associated Gas & Electric Company testified to the thoroughgoing destruction of their field records in a $700,000 battle against the administration's utilities bill.

They "burned the papers," or "laid them aside in a waste basket," they told the senate lobby committee, on orders from "higher up." These instructions, they conceded after relentless grilling, were prompted by concern lest "something might be made of them" in the federal investigation which now has landed on the company.

Meanwhile, committee agents quietly ransacked the New York office files of the holding company. They were checking up, Chairman Black, democrat, Alabama, said, on the company's estimate of $700,000 securities department at Idaho, N. provision of the utilities bill decreasing abolition for "unnecessary" utility holding companies.

But he added, "if all the papers have been destroyed as indicated in the investigation, it may be impossible to show how much they actually did spend. Nobody would know either it was $700,000 or $5,000,000."

The witnesses were R. P. Herron, company bond salesman at Warren, Pa., from whom issued a thousand or more telegrams to congressmen, signed with names from the city directory, and his immediate superior, E. W. O'Brien, of Erie, Pa.

Orders From "Higher Ups." Herron said his destruction orders and expense money came from O'Brien and O'Brien added the information that he got both from U. E. Beach, manager of the A. G. E.'s securities department at Idaho, N. Y. Beach was subpoenaed instantly, and is expected to take the stand tomorrow.

In Idaho, N. Y., today, he declined to comment.

From T. B. Kingsbury, Western Union's Washington manager, the committee received an up-to-the-minute report of 127,000 telegrams opposing the utilities bill delivered to senators and house members here at an estimated cost of $76,000.

F. R. Veale, general superintendent for Western Union's eastern division, gave the committee requested information showing 5,276 telegrams sent from Easton, Pa., at a cost of $2,455. He said they were paid for by a representative of Metropolitan Edison, a subsidiary, he believed, of Associated Gas & Electric.

Enigma Unsolved. Herron, with a ready grin, denied any connection with the burning of the original Western Union records of telegrams sent from Warren. That enigma, with which the present phase of the investigation began, remained an unsolved puzzle.

ACTION IS DELAYED IN 2 STATE SUITS

'Citizens' To Oppose Payment of Special Building Fund to University.

Two suits, in one of which the state is to be the plaintiff, and in another the defendant, were delayed in filing today because the courts today.

The first, the petition of the Georgia Public Service Commission in the federal court to enjoin the Interstate Commerce Commission from cancelling its rate reduction order of last July was ready for filing but the action was postponed until today because of the absence from the city of Chairman J. P. Wilhoit, of the public service commission, and Attorney-General M. J. Thomas.

Chairman Wilhoit made formal announcement of the commission's suit before he left the city Wednesday night and the petition was to have been filed yesterday, but Judge Yeomans was called to Crawfordville yesterday morning at about 10 o'clock for Governor Talmadge on the Alexander Stephens memorial program.

BAN ON GOLD SUITS IS VOTED BY HOUSE

Measure Is Sent to Senate Where It Will Face Long and Bitter Fight.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(UP)—The house voted today to slam the doors of the courts against all persons attempting to file suits against the federal government, because it cheapened the dollar.

Thousands of persons who hold federal gold clause bonds were forbidden under the terms of the bill, to try to collect $1.00 for every dollar's worth of obligations they own. The vote was 253 to 88.

The measure now goes to the senate. It is opposed there by two former secretaries of the treasury—Senator Carter Glass, and Senator William G. McKim.

The Roosevelt administration has reduced the gold content of the dollar until it is worth only 59.06 cents. It also has increased the price of gold. Thus a man who bought a government gold bond in 1931 finds that it is worth $1.00 in gold today.

It was to prevent such persons from suing the government that the administration brought this bill into the house today and jammed it through. Republicans immediately raised the cry of "repudiation and bad faith," but their objections were overruled by the democratic majority.

The same resolution that the house had up for consideration today is being considered by the senate banking and currency committee.

The normal procedure is that the federal government can be sued provided it gives assent to the suit. This resolution closes the door on such procedure by writing a prohibition against suits on the statute books.

Representative John B. Hollister, Ohio, said: "They call this a denial of the right to sue on the gold clause," he said sarcastically. "Actually, it is more than that. This denies to the holders of all federal obligations, including bonds of the Farm Credit Administration and the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, the right to go into court and get an interpretation of their contracts."

ATLANTAN ENTERS SUIT FOR MILLION IN MARKS

Suit Involving 1,000,000 German Marks Was Filed in Fulton County Court Yesterday by C. W. Bishop Through His Attorney, Edlin Haldane.

Bishop is suing the American Express Company for $8, plus interest from July 20, 1923, alleging he paid that amount of money for an express company cheque for 1,000,000 marks. The marks were worthless, he stated in the suit and the cheque has never been cashed, either in the United States or in a foreign country.

MAHAN IS IDENTIFIED
BY KIDNAP VICTIM

OMAHA, Neb., July 18.—(AP)—The Omaha World Herald today said Charles Mack, Hooper, Neb. marshal, and other persons identified pictures of William Mahan, fugitive Weyerhaeuser kidnaper, as the leader of a group of three men who kidnaped Mack early today.

Besides Mack, the newspaper said, two brothers and their two sisters, who were taken for a pleasure ride by the trio last night, identified Mahan's photograph. The children, Ada, Cora, John and Frank Mitchell, living near Hooper, said the strangers left them at home at about 2:30 a. m.

Shortly afterward Mack was forced to watch the men steal two automobiles and a gasoline supply. He was left unharmed at a bridge north of the city.

A ball game will also be a feature of the afternoon exercises followed by the coronation ball tonight.

The festival is being held to create interest in the local tobacco market. The tobacco belt of south Georgia is preparing to sell approximately 55,000,000 pounds of seed, beginning on August 1, the opening date of sales. On that date the warehouses will be thrown open and buyers will begin their thrice of calling the names of the successful bidders as the farmers and speculators move from pile to pile of the golden leaf.

Bright leaf tobacco became a major crop in this section following the invasion of the boll weevil, about 1922, and soon developed into one of the important crops in this area.

The crop this year is estimated at 55,000,000 pounds, compared with 31,000,000 pounds last year.

Police Wagon Provides Place for Twins' Birth

At the hospital, where the boys were weighed-in at seven and eight pounds, respectively, attendants said 20-year records showed no previous instance of twins born in a patrol wagon.

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP)—The stork not only beat the automobile this time—it carried a double load. Twin sons were born to Mrs. Jean Grimm, 29, during a pause as a police patrol was rushing her to county hospital.

At the hospital, where the boys were weighed-in at seven and eight pounds, respectively, attendants said 20-year records showed no previous instance of twins born in a patrol wagon.

COLGATE OFFICIALS VISIT CITIES OF S. E.

Conditions in Section Highly Praised by Sales Executives Here.

A. F. Danz and Jack M. Geist, manager and general sales manager, respectively, of the industrial department, Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Company, New York city, recently met R. W. Bagwell, of Atlanta, and visited practically every principal city in the 10 southeastern states covered by the Atlanta office, making a careful survey of industrial business and conditions generally.

Stops were made at Richmond, Greensboro, Charlotte, Atlanta, Birmingham, Memphis and New Orleans, as well as points west, and the New York officials report very satisfactory conditions throughout the territory covered.

Mr. Danz, a newcomer to the south, was emphatic in his praise of conditions generally and predicted a banner year, more than in keeping with 1934, when the Atlanta division led the United States in industrial sales. A general upturn and nice increase is noticeable in the hotel industry, as well as the laundry industry, while other industries covered by this department indicate a healthy condition.

PLAN BOND GROUP

Key To Name Committee To Champion Issue.

Mayor Key yesterday was studying the personnel of a special steering committee to champion passage on September 18 of $1,775,000 worth of city bonds for sewer and school improvements. The committee will be designated for that purpose.

Passage of the proposals means that the $1,000,000 the city is asked to expend for sanitary sewers will be supplemented by $4,500,000 by WPA; that the $500,000 for storm water sewers will be augmented by about $2,000,000 from the federal government. If plans materialize, and that the $275,000 for schools will bring another $1,000,000 worth of school improvements.

Key believes vigorous action should be taken to acquaint the people of the emergency attending the bond proposals in order that they may cast their ballots intelligently on the matter. The committee will be designated for that purpose.

CCC PLANS RECRUITING OF 210 FERA YOUTHS

Enrollment of 210 Georgia youths for the Civilian Conservation Corps camp at Reidsville will take place within the next two weeks, according to Major E. G. Sandlin, in charge of CCC troop movements in the fourth corps area. The boys enrolled in the camp at present are to be transferred to Salt Lake City, Utah, inasmuch as they were originally recruited in the second corps area. Youths for the Reidsville camp will be taken from families on the rolls of the FERA.

NEW PIGGLY WIGGLY TO OPEN HERE TODAY

Ponce de Leon Store Will Be Last Word in Food Merchandising.

The last word in food merchandising has been brought to Atlanta with the opening today of a new super-type Piggly Wiggly store at 228-230 Ponce de Leon avenue, near the corner of Myrtle street. It was announced by H. J. Meyn, president of the Piggly Wiggly Company of Georgia. In addition to its modern facilities for the preservation of foods with "farm freshness," the big establishment is the work of artists and master craftsmen. The general color scheme is green and buff and handsome lithographed murals adorn the walls. The bright chromium fixtures and shining plate glass complete the attractive ensemble.

The display of merchandise follows the most modern form, employing what is known as the "island type" where customers may browse about at leisure, selecting tidbits and staples here and there. The institution will carry the finest quality meats, fish and staple supplies, Mr. Meyn announced.

The opening of the super-type store marks the initial step in the city-wide expansion and modernizing program of the company which operates 20 stores in Greater Atlanta and Marietta, Mr. Meyn declared.

The establishment will provide modern meat, produce, candy, bakery and grocery departments. Additional clerks will be on hand both today and tomorrow to insure good service for the large number of patrons who are expected to attend the opening days, Mr. Meyn said.

We expect this new establishment to be one of the city's most popular food markets," the president declared.

fresh, said he laid his plan before the President at a conference this morning. "After talking with him," Mitchell said, "I am positive he will sign it as soon as we get it through congress."

Do you know that dealers pay more to serve you Southern Dairies ICE CREAM?

Of course your dealer could serve ice cream that costs him less than Southern Dairies. But he knows you want the best—at a reasonable price—and that's the kind he prefers to serve you. It costs more to make an ice cream like Southern Dairies—yet the cost to you is but a little or no higher than for "cheap" ice creams.

BILBO AVERS CONNERANTI-F. D. R. FROM START

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—Governor Conner, of Mississippi, was accused today by Senator Bilbo, of Mississippi, with having been "at cross purposes with the policies of the Roosevelt administration from the very start."

Bilbo's statement was in reply to one by Conner in which the governor denied having been responsible for establishing negro CCC camps in Mississippi and added: "In many other federal activities in this state the governor of Mississippi has been ignored completely."

ZEST TANG

And this picnic is different—with peppy new taste thrills when the lunch baskets start to pop open. There'll be great mounds of sandwiches which melt amazingly when the men discover them. Because, in those creamy cheese fillings we've mixed in Durkee's Dressing—it has the Tang that gets a man. We've done the same trick with the stuffing for those hard-boiled eggs.

And what will the salad be? Potato, fruit, vegetable? Well—the way to a man's heart calls for diced meat or flaked fish. Chop the greens or cabbage. Then, (and here's the way to convert any salad-aholic man) mix in plenty of Durkee's Dressing. Durkee's secret flavor-formula is the reason for that distinctive Tang and Zest.

TAX ON EXCESS PROFITFAVORED OVER INCOME

Roosevelt Is Non-Committal, But Solons Turn Attention to Plan.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—The congressional movement to tax corporation's excess profits instead of their incomes today attained swelling proportions.

First, it was reported authoritatively the idea of the substitution had been proposed to President Roosevelt, who remained non-committal.

Second, sentiment in the house ways and means committee for an excess profits tax grew to such an extent that experts were asked to draw up several different rate schedules for committee consideration.

Emphasizing there has been no definite decision to replace the graduated income tax asked by the President with a tax on excess profits, Chairman Doughton, democrat, North Carolina, of the house ways and means committee, said:

"Yes, we asked that three or four different schedules be drawn up for the committee to consider in place of the corporation income tax."

Lovell H. Parker, chief of staff of the joint congressional committee on internal revenue, was asked to prepare the schedules which would levy taxes of varying size on different incomes.

At present, corporations are allowed to declare, themselves, the adjusted value of their capital stock. On incomes on that capital stock they are taxed a flat 13 3/4 per cent plus five per cent on all profits in excess of 12 1/2 per cent.

President Roosevelt suggested the flat 13 3/4 per cent tax on all corporation incomes be replaced with the graduated levy reaching from 10 3/4 to 16 3/4 per cent. The committee now propose to step up the excess profits levy and perhaps reduce the allowance 12 1/2 per cent profit.

ATLANTA GIRL'S DEATHREMAINS A MYSTERY

The final chapter in the sudden death of Miss Dorothy Hollingsworth, 22-year-old church worker and employee of a local insurance firm, was written yesterday, when physicians were unable to determine the cause of the young woman's death Monday despite a chemical examination of the stomach fluids.

The young woman died two and a half hours after she had been stricken ill Monday. An autopsy failed to reveal the cause of death and the chemical analysis was then decided upon. The examining physician declared that the analysis failed to reveal any cause of death.

Miss Hollingsworth's respiratory system failed before her heart stopped beating, the examining doctor reported. The autopsy and chemical examination were made at the request of her father, J. Hope Hollingsworth, of 1112 Virginia avenue.

THREE MEALS A DAY

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES
by Sally Saver

This summer's oranges, though small in size, are plentiful. It's another record crop of juicy and flavorful fruit—and prices should be reasonable.

Lemons also are plentiful, so you'll have no difficulty obtaining them for that early morning drink to health—or zesty tang in fruit drinks, salads or what have you.

Serving Orange Juice.

Be sure it is freshly made. It loses flavor and vitamins as it stands. Use an electrical extractor or hand reamer and strain or not, as you wish. Most people like it chilled on a warm day.

Very popular is the glass of orange juice with juice of one-half lemon added to "bring out the flavor." Honey is a tasty sweetening agent.

Orange Juice Variations.

Frosted Orange Juice: The children like this combination of orange juice (fill a glass almost to top with chilled juice), and vanilla ice cream (one scoop). Stir until cream is partly melted. Serve at once.

Orange Ginger Ale: For an excellent cocktail or dinner beverage, combine two-thirds glass chilled orange juice with one-third glass chilled ginger ale. Serve while effervescing.

Breakfast Orange Cocktail: Beat together one-half cup orange juice 1 egg yolk, pinch salt, honey or sugar to taste. Chill if desired. Serve for breakfast.

Orange Summer Salads.

Orange Rose Salad: Peel oranges, removing skin down to juicy pulp. Cut in slices and cut slices in halves. Arrange in circle on bed of lettuce around a center mound of cottage cheese. If desired, garnish with 4 or 5 berries or seeded purple grapes.

Fruit Salad in Sections: In lettuce leaf cups, arrange 4 separate piles of fruit as follows: Orange half slices, peach or pear slices, strawberries or other berries in season, banana balls.

Sunkist Salad Bowl: In lettuce-lined salad bowl, combine one cup orange slices or half slices, 3/4 cup peach slices, 3/4 cup pear slices, 1/2 cup seeded grapes. Blend 1 tablespoon orange juice with 3 tablespoons mayonnaise and put over fruit.

Long, Tall Drinks.

Some long, tall drinks which children or guests will relish—and from which they will benefit—are such variations as these:

Spiced Orangeade: To 1 cup of orange juice, add 1/4 cup iced water or 2 cubes of orange juice with 2 to 3 tablespoons spiced sugar syrup.

To make this syrup, combine: 1 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger, and 1 1/3 cups boiling water; cool and bottle for uses as needed.

Orange Buttermilk: Keen for health addicts, and surprisingly tasty. Combine 1/2 cup orange juice with 1/2 cup buttermilk. Sweeten to taste and serve ice cold.

Iced Orange Soup.

(Serves 8.)

Delectable as a first course for luncheon or dinner on a hot day is this fruit dish, a variation of the more usual fruit cocktail. Take:

Two tablespoons gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold water, 3 cups orange juice, 3/4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup orange pieces, mint sprigs.

Combine gelatin and cold water. Let stand 5 minutes. Heat 1 cup of orange juice over hot water. Add gelatin and sugar. Stir until dissolved. Cool. Add rest of fruit juices. Chill several hours. Stir occasionally. Add orange pieces. Serve ice cold as first course and garnish with orange slices.

Sunkist Fruit Sherbet.

(2 quarts.)

Citrus fruit juices make an excellent base for fruit sherbets, combining with seasonal fruits. There is nothing more refreshing with which to top a summer guest meal—or family get-together. It's simple to prepare and requires no last-minute fussing—always boons to the hostess! Take:

One-fourth cup orange juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 2 1/2 cups sugar, 1 quart milk, 1 cup cream (or following fruits: crushed strawberries, raspberries, apricot pulp, mashed peaches).

Mix and freeze. If mixture curdles it will freeze smooth again.

Fruit Salad Dessert Mixture.

(Serves 5-6.)

Here is a basic recipe for a fruit combination which may be served as an appetizer, salad or dessert, depending upon the "trimmings" which adapt it to these various courses. Rather convenient. Mix:

One cup orange pieces, 1/2 cup diced pears, 3/4 cup sliced bananas, 3/4 cup sliced peaches (or apricots, berries, cherries or grapes), sugar or simple syrup to taste. Mix fruits and sweeten. Chill. Serve as:

Fruit Cup:—One-half cup in cocktail glass for first course; 3/4 cup for dessert. Or serve in baskets made of orange peel. This may be topped with orange or lemon ice.

Fruit Salad:—Serve 1/2 to 3/4 cup on lettuce covered salad plate with sweet French dressing.

Fruit Salad Sundae:—Top vanilla ice cream with 1 to 2 ounces. (2 to 4 tablespoons) of mixture.

LEMON TAPIOCA.

(Serves 6-8.)

Relished by youngsters or adults and suitable for either or both is this simple dessert with a grand flavor. Take:

One-third cup quick cooking tapioca, 3 cups boiling water, 1/4 teaspoon salt, rind 1 lemon. Cook 20 to 30 minutes. Remove lemon rind and add 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten; chill thoroughly and serve in sherbet glasses.

ORANGE MEAT SALAD.

(Serves 6.)

This makes a welcome luncheon dish when you are wondering what to do with the bits from last night's roast:

Mix:

Two cups cold roast meat (lamb, ven, chicken or duck), 2 cups orange pieces.

Cut the meat into small pieces and marinate in mixture of 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons salad oil, 1 teaspoon salt and 1/4 teaspoon pepper. Combine orange and meat and serve on crisp lettuce with salad dressing.

Sandwiches.

Meal-in-one sandwiches for after bridge repasts and for quick luncheons and suppers are among the most interesting and popular members of the sandwich family. Substantial tasty fillings appear in sandwiches of all shapes and sizes. The main secret

MOSQUITOES

Inject into your blood disease germs of the different fevers, as typhoid, yellow, spotted, sleeping sickness and malaria.

Malaria is one of the most dangerous and prevalent of all human diseases — never has a case of malaria developed unless that person was first bitten by a germ-carrying mosquito—you only get malaria from mosquitoes.

Mosquitoes keep you awake, and irritate you with their singing. They are health destroyers and help to cause nervous breakdowns.

Kill Mosquitoes quickly, and with little trouble or expense by spraying your home with Rigo's KILL-KO, the most powerful insecticide known to modern science — because it contains more of the deadly Pyrethrum Flower or insect killing powder.

of success lies in insuring plenty of flavor by the use of seasonings and condiments, and having attractive garnishes in the form of olives, pickles and such. Also, don't be afraid to use ingenuity in creating the unusual in tempting sandwiches.

Your guests will wax enthusiastic when you serve the novel sandwiches suggested below:

Grilled Liver Pudding Sandwiches

Place in hot oven or under broiler to heat sandwich through. Serve on luncheon plate and cover top with French fried onions. Serve with tomato ketchup.

Note: This filling may be placed between slices of bread, then toasted.

French Fried Onions:—Four medium onions, 1 egg, 1/2 cupful milk, 1/2 cupful flour, deep hot fat, salt and pepper.

Peel and slice onions 1/2 inch thick, then separate into rings. Mix egg, milk and flour and dip onion rings into batter. Fry in deep hot fat (300 degrees Fahrenheit) for about 4 minutes. Drain on paper and sprinkle with salt and pepper.

'2-GUN' ALTERIE SLAIN BY HIDDEN ENEMIES

Chicago Gangster Killed by Bandits Who Had Laid in Wait.

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP)—In a shotgun ambush, a 46-year-old veteran of gang and labor wars, walked into a hail of shotgun slugs and the death which he had slugged for nearly 15 years.

It poured from the open window of a room in an apartment house commanding the parking place where Alterie's shining new sedan was parked. With his wife he was ready to sit in the car when the shooting occurred.

Died Without Statement.
Rushed to a hospital, he murmured weakly to his wife, Emma, "They got me, honey." He was unconscious when police arrived and died without making any further statement.

In the "nest" where the killers, who escaped, had lurked nine days waiting for their chance at the gangster who variously was an illicit beer baron, labor union overlord and a Colorado "duffy" racketeer, police found a repeating shotgun, an automatic rifle and several shells. The rifle apparently had been unused.

Police were confronted with a maze of possible motives as they set out to find the killers. A swashbuckling brawl—with a flair for "wild west" action—from the start of the gang wars over illicit liquor, Alterie's long connection with a big list of rackets and his dominance of the theater janitors' union, were studied particularly.

Captain Daniel Gilbert, of the state's attorney's police, said Alterie, whose real name was Leland Varian, was a suspect in the slaying of Tommy Maloy, movie operator, in a car, a few months ago. Police said he also was suspected of the slaying of Paddy King several years ago in the motion picture operators' union headquarters.

Whether the killers were labor enemies—police theory inclined to remnants of the Maloy slaying—evidently remembered Alterie was the first Chicago gangster to don a steel vest. Twelve slugs pierced his body in the region of the head and face.

Alterie—he took the name when a boxer he admired was killed—got his sobriquet "Two Gun" by posing armed with two pistols, after his partner, Dion O'Banion, was slain in one of the earliest beer war assassinations, and boasting: "I'll shoot it out at State and Madison streets with the killers."

U. S. TREASURY ACCEPTS
TENDERS ON BOND ISSUE
WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—The treasury's sale of new bonds on a basis of a third bond of bonds, amounting to $100,000,000 was described today by Secretary Morgenthau as "very successful."

He said tenders had been received for $510,958,000 face amount of the 2 7/8 per cent treasury bonds maturing 1955-60. Of that amount $100,967,000 was accepted, with the balance of $410,991,000 ranging from 101 27/32 to 101 19/32.

Prices accepted were equivalent to a yield of about 2.78 per cent to maturity, said to equal the lowest interest rate the treasury has paid for comparable loans.

ENGINEER, 2 TRANSCIENTS KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK
WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 18.—(AP)—An engineer and two transients were killed last night in the head-on collision of a local passenger train with a 20-car freight.

Twelve passengers were injured, none seriously. Stanley Cowan, Pasco, Wash., engineer of the passenger train, was killed when trapped in his cab.

Fred Madison, Portland, Ore., was the only identified transient victim. The accident occurred in an isolated grassy brush area 27 miles east of Pasco.

The alleged thief was shot through the mouth. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady hospital.

Good Roads Enthusiasts Join Columbus Motorcade

A group of Georgians and the president of the association sponsoring the four were members of the procession which went from Columbus to Albany yesterday to open the new paved highway into Florida. PROCESSING TAX BAN IS ASSAILED IN SENATE petitors of cotton, amounting to 125 per cent of the cotton processing tax, after withdrawal of an earlier proposal by Senator Byrnes, democrat, South Carolina, to protect rayon makers by a compensatory tax also on silk.

Meanwhile, the attorney-general's office came forward with a statement that the decision of the first circuit court outlawing processing taxes in the Hoosier Mills case would not affect tax collections in other parts of the country.

To Appeal Case.
"This case," the statement from the attorney-general's office said, "will be carried to the supreme court as quickly as possible, since the government does not acquiesce in the correctness of the decision."

The justice department also contended that suits to restrain collection of the tax, although already numerous, were prohibited by law except in "exceptional circumstances" where the courts deemed it advisable to permit them.

Borah, in opening his attack, said: "Not the state or the government is the superior power, but the people. They have never given the federal or state governments exemptions from suits by citizens who have been wronged."

"There is not in the constitution a line or a letter indicating exemption of the government from suits by citizens. I cannot conceive why when a citizen is wronged under a free government he shouldn't have a right to be heard. It is a fiction, a falsehood, a libel upon free government."

Robinson On Defense.
Robinson took up the defense, while Borah sat back to munch a sandwich while waiting for a rebuttal speech.

"It is a settled principle of law," the majority leader declared, "that no sovereign can be sued except with consent of that sovereign. We may readily understand that the principle has been an outgrowth of centuries of experience. If the government were subject to suit in every claim, I ask you to consider how long the government would continue to exist."

"I make the assertion," Robinson continued, "that in almost, if not every instance, the tax has been paid by the government from suits by citizens. I cannot conceive why when a citizen is wronged under a free government he shouldn't have a right to be heard. It is a fiction, a falsehood, a libel upon free government."

WALLACE DENIES TAX IN SEATTLE ADDRESS.
SEATTLE, July 18.—(AP)—Agriculture never has "subscribed to a policy of food scarcity," Secretary Wallace declared here tonight, in defense of the processing tax.

Addressing the national convention of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, he said:

"If farmers are to use governmental powers to induce scarcity, to take food and fiber away from the American consumer, those powers should be denied them. But they have not so used governmental powers. The unavailability fact is that agriculture never has subscribed to a policy of food scarcity. I believe it never will."

COLLECTION OF TAXES HALTED BY U. S. COURT
NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 18.—(AP)—An order restraining the collector of internal revenue from collecting Agricultural Adjustment Administration processing taxes from 19 Tennessee processors was issued today by United States District Judge John J. Gore.

Judge Gore did not rule on the constitutionality of the AAA act, pronouncing the question immaterial to the cases at issue. In litigation in other courts, the enactment has been declared both valid and invalid and the matter eventually will be decided by the United States Supreme Court.

BIRMINGHAM JUDGE RULES AAA ILLEGAL
(UPI)—Federal Judge Charles B. Kenner ruled late today collection of processing taxes by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration is unconstitutional.

The judge said he would enjoin Harwell G. Davis, collector of internal revenue, from collecting processing taxes from six complaining Alabama firms.

Judge Kenner indicated earlier in the day his ruling would occur with that of a Boston circuit court, which held AAA unconstitutional.

Columbus-to-Albany Motorcade Dedicates Florida Short Route

ALBANY, Ga., July 18.—(AP)—Completion of paving on the Florida short route in Georgia was celebrated today as a motorcade moved from Columbus to Albany to formally open the route.

The motorcade, which reached Albany, its terminus, early tonight, marked the end of a long period of activity by west Georgia civic leaders for completion of paving of the route in Georgia—a leg on the long-hoped-for all-paved short route between the middle west and Florida.

Plans are now on foot looking to the paving of remaining unpaved stretches of the route through Alabama.

Sponsored by the Columbus Ledger and the Columbus Enquirer, and the Albany Herald, the motorcade began with 40 automobiles in Columbus, which left the Ledger-Enquirer building there, this morning. As it moved along the route, additional civic leaders joined the throng.

The ceremonies today were in celebration of completion of the last section of paving between Columbus and Albany. The motorcade was led by Commissioner Jones, Mayor Willard Reese, of Preston, and Mayor T. H. McGarragh, of Weston, also extended greetings to the members of the motorcade, which was composed of more than 100 cars before it reached Albany.

The group was entertained by the Lions Club at Dawson for an afternoon stop and then proceeded here. Residents of eastern Alabama, through which the highway runs on its way to the middle west from Florida, also participated in the celebration.

The Albany Herald and civic leaders here entertained the group with a dinner and dance at Radium Springs hotel.

Smith and Harvey Both Concede
They Won't Escape at Alcatraz
Albany Smith and Leland Harvey, convicted of the $7,500 pay roll robbery of the National City Bank, of Rome, have no intention of attempting to escape from Alcatraz, the federal government's island prison on the Pacific coast, if they are sent to that institution.

Smith and Harvey, formerly Georgia's Public Enemies No. 1 and No. 2, will appear before Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, at which time they will be heard on their motion for a new trial. Both insist they are innocent and are hopeful the jury will grant them a new trial.

The pair, paroled by Governor Talmadge while serving sentences in excess of 100 years each, were convicted of the Rome pay roll robbery six weeks ago. Since that time they have been confined in Fulton tower awaiting the hearing on their new trial motion. They have been sentenced to serve five years each.

"How far is Alcatraz from the mainland?" Smith asked when informed the government would probably send him to that prison. Told it was more than a mile, Smith shrugged his shoulders and said: "Well, I'm not much of a swimmer anyway, and it would be better to serve the rest of my life in Alcatraz than to risk my neck in the ocean."

"Alcatraz could be right in the heart of San Francisco as far as I'm concerned," Harvey declared. "If Judge Underwood denies us a new trial, we have to go there. I'm going to be a good boy and serve out my time." A cellmate of Harvey suggested he might have a sharp knife and a saw to shore, but he said he would not use them.

Both Smith and Harvey insist they are not guilty of the crime for which they were sentenced. "We are innocent and we are going to prove our innocence," Harvey said. "I hope Judge Underwood grants us a new trial. I am confident we can prove our innocence."

Alcatraz is the new federal prison on the Pacific coast. It is regarded as a good place to serve a long term, as escape proof, as treacherous currents make escape by swimming almost an impossibility.

Pay-As-You-Park Meters Produce
Mints, Not Money in Oklahoma City
OKLAHOMA CITY, July 18.—(AP)—Wiseacre predicted Oklahoma City's new pay-as-you-park meters would yield "a mint of money," but they were only half right.

The new civic slot machines have produced both mints and money—candy mints which rebellious citizens slipped into the curbside parking devices.

The first day's "take" was interrupted by a district court injunction, but before the injunction was dissolved, the city had collected a miscellaneous collection of nickels, dimes, pennies, slugs and candy and announced it added to $55.75.

The meters averaged 49 cents each. Ammerman failed to report how he figured in the slugs and mints.

"They'll pay for themselves in 60 days," declared City Manager Orval Mosier, munching a licorice drop. "I think the public rather likes them."

NON-RELIEF LABOR BAN LIFTED FROM HOUSING

Ickes Announces Exemption
From Hopkins' Order To Deplete Rolls.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—Exemption of low-cost housing projects from the work relief requirement that 90 per cent of all labor be taken from relief rolls was announced today by Secretary Ickes.

He said at his press conference he had obtained exemption of the housing projects from all labor regulations imposed by Harry L. Hopkins, the Works Progress Administration.

The requirement that 90 per cent of workmen be taken from relief lists had been attacked in some cities as a serious handicap to housing construction.

Projects of this type already had been exempted from the $19 to $24 wage scales fixed by Hopkins for relief workers.

Asked if the new exemption would be extended to other PWA projects, Ickes said:

"I don't want to be quoted on it. I insisted, however, 'if you can't get workmen from relief rolls then you ought to be allowed to get them elsewhere.'"

Still declining to say whether he would appeal the Cincinnati Circuit court decision exempting the Cincinnati housing projects, Ickes said "we are not worried about our slum clearance program at all."

He said states and cities have submitted for the $22,000,000 of new PWA projects but delays in the office of J. R. McCarl, the comptroller general, are preventing a start on some of the projects already approved by President Roosevelt.

CONCERT PROGRAM CONCLUDES SERIES
Enthusiastic Audience Hears
Hodgson-Directed Recital
At Emory.

The final concert of the Emory University Summer school series, conducted by Hugh Hodgson, was presented in Glenn Memorial auditorium Thursday evening to an enthusiastic crowd.

The choir of St. Luke's Episcopal church and the Atlanta Conservatory String quartet assisted Mr. Hodgson in the presentation.

The first part of the program was a reading of the first movement of the Dvorak "Quintet in A" with Mr. Hodgson playing with the string quartet, the personnel of which is Claire Harper, first violin; Rose Thompson, second violin; George Lindner, viola; and Miss Clara Lindner, cello.

Minna Hecker, coloratura soprano, was featured in two operatic arias, "Ah Fors e Lail" from Verdi's "Travinta" and "The Shadow Song" from "Dinorah." Her singing evoked in exquisite beauty of tone and versatility of technique.

The choir of St. Luke's offered one operatic number, the "Eastern Hymn," from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana."

The latter half of the program was devoted to oratorio, with the choir, accompanied by the string quartet, Moselle Horton Young at the organ, and Miss Hodgson at the piano and directing—singing "Inflammatus" from Rossini's "Stabat Mater," and Gounod's "Gallia." Under Mr. Hodgson's authoritative direction, the entire ensemble achieved superior artistic work.

AT ATLANTA'S THEATERS

Grand Stars Bergner In "Escape Me Never"

Elisabeth Bergner was internationally famous before she came to America, early this year, to appear in the Theater Guild's presentation of "Escape Me Never." She had become a favorite actress both in Berlin and in London, and her success in New York was immense. Now a carefully-made screen version of this play is provided, with Miss Bergner still in the principal role, and supported by the same cast which appeared in the stage version.

"Escape Me Never" opens today at Loew's Grand theater. It is Miss Bergner's dramatization of her own novel, "A Fool in the Family," which was itself the sequel to her famous novel, the unforgettable "Countess Nympha."

The story presents two sons of a distinguished and eccentric composer, Sebastian (Hugh Sinclair), has inherited, along with his father's musical genius, the unforgettable "Countess Nympha."

In Naples Sebastian has given refuge to a 14-year-old girl, Gemma (Miss Berger), and her baby. Sebastian is in love with the girl, which made his father an international scandal. Cary (Griffith Jones), the other son, is as meticulous and as correct as Sebastian is selfish and daring.

Opposite the star is Charles Boyer, the handsome French actor who was the idol of the Paris stage and won American film fame overnight by his work in "Private Worlds."

The story of "Break of Hearts" is the story of the great love of a promising young composer, Hepburn's role, and the most idolized orchestra conductor in the world, playing of course, by Boyer. The tragedies or romance between temperamental musicians build in "Break of Hearts" into tremendous drama and the picture is by far the most powerful in which the exciting Hepburn has ever appeared.

With "Break of Hearts" the great symphony orchestra appears as a factor in a motion picture. A symphony crew of 85 performs for the film, and during the picture music of Beethoven and Bach is played under the conductorship of Boyer. The musical score of the film, composed and arranged by Max Steiner, also contains several interesting popular melodies.

John Beal, who became film famous as Gavin Dismart in the same star's "The Little Minister," has a featured role. Others in the company are Jean Herscholt, Sam Hardy, Inez Courtney, Helene Millard, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Susan Fleming, Leo Kuhlman, Jean Howard and Anne Grey.

Grace Moore Picture Held Over at Rialto
Grace Moore's "Love Me Forever" will enter the second week of its run at the Rialto theater today. As soon as the response of Atlanta to the utterly delightful and stirring piece of screen entertainment became evident, Manager W. T. Murray informed Columbia Pictures they stood no chance of getting their print back at the end of the first week. And while such crowds continue—the theater has been constantly packed every day since the opening—Manager Murray will keep showing it, surely.

Even the earlier Moore picture, "One Night of Love," was not as close to perfection as this, perfection in romantic charm, in light comedy, in singing and in the delightful whole. It is one of the outstanding screen achievements of all time.

While the picture would be a success even without its music, it is yet true that the climax in entertainment comes toward the end, when Miss Moore and Michael Bartlett, sensational young American tenor, singing practically the entire first act of "Bohème," together, together, together, never, not even in the Metropolitan at New York, has the immortal Puccini score been heard to such advantage as in this screen version.

Joe Brown in "Alibi Ike"
New Georgia Feature
Joe E. Brown's latest, Warner Brothers picture, "Alibi Ike," scheduled as the feature attraction at the Georgia theater today is heralded as the most hilarious film in which the famous star has appeared. The story was written by the late Ring Lardner. It is a pennant-winning comedy of baseball and blondes.

"Alibi Ike" is a big-league ball player, crack pitcher and a better whose average, contrary to most twirlers, runs around the 400 mark. He never makes a play on the field or off it without alibiing.

When he falls desperately in love with the sister of the captain's wife, he alibis about it. She happens to hear him making excuses for giving her an engagement ring, and turns him down cold, which causes a series of events as thrilling as they are ludicrous.

A sequence showing Ike kidnapped by a group of gamblers, from whom he escapes in time to win the final game in his pajamas, is just one of the exciting and funny incidents in the film.

William Frawley has the role of the baseball captain, with Ruth Donnelly playing the part of his wife, Roscoe Karns is one of the chief ringleaders who gets Joe in dutch with his girl.

Amateur Stops Show
On Stage at Capitol
To be able to stop a show is a big compliment to a performer. An amateur is attempting the show this week at the air-conditioned Capitol theater, where the first-prize winner of last Friday night's amateur contest, Trudie Moore, is appearing in a week's engagement. The first-prize winner is offered a cash prize of $10 or a week's engagement on the stage. There is also a second and third prize. The contestant receiving the most applause from the audience is the winner. An applause meter is used, leaving no room for doubt or guess work.

Tonight's contest will present adult acts including Kathryn Huggins, Billy Alford, Evelyn Stettin, Jimmy Smith, Owen Heard Jr., and Helen Wright.

With the contest will be the regular stage show, "Rambles in Rhythm," and an exciting feature picture, "Black Sheep," with Edmund Lowe and Claire Trevor, which runs through Saturday.

Starting Sunday the Capitol will present Roy Gordon's "Crazy People Revue," featuring eight acts of vaudeville. The screen attraction will be "Village Tale," starring Randolph Scott and Kay Johnson.

$32,000 IS INVOLVED
IN REAL ESTATE DEAL
The building at 119 Luckie street has been sold by the Lanatta Trading Company to Namsy, Incorporated, headed by Glenn R. Ryman, president of the American Discount Company. It was learned yesterday.

The two-story concrete building was purchased for $32,000. Mr. Ryman said. John C. Baldwin Jr., vice president of the Draper-Dwight Company, realtors, handled the transaction.

All leases with the present occupants of the building run until January 1, 1939, with an aggregate rental of approximately $16,200, according to Mr. Ryman. The building occupies a lot 40 by 100 feet. Mr. Ryman bought recently the Castle Pines apartments, on Peachtree street, for approximately $60,000, he said.

Savants Discover Star With 180,000-Degree Heat

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 18.—(AP)—An unnamed, far off star, whose surface temperature is 180,000 degrees Fahrenheit, the highest heat ever measured anywhere, was described to the conference on spectroscopy today at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The sun's surface is barely 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit. The hottest temperature previously reported, all on stars, were 35,000 to 40,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

A blue rainbow—the distant star's ultra-violet light—revealed the inferno. This star is a peculiar object. It is a sun surrounded by a nebula, which in the telescope looks like a halo—a star surrounded by something like the ring around the moon.

It was this ring or nebula which made it possible to read the temperature with new instruments and new methods.

NAZI OFFICERS JAIL AN AMERICAN EDITOR

Allege Journal Continuously
Attacks Policy of Present Regime.

BERLIN, July 18.—(AP)—General Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Germany's secret police chief, came back today from conferring with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in the Bavarian mountains to fire another broadside in the nation's newest drive against the Catholic church.

He issued an order to criminal prosecution authorities to enforce strictly decrees against "political Catholicism," asserting this sort of Catholicism "must be overcome by positive national socialism."

A few hours later secret police seized M. C. Harbeck, American editor of the German edition of the magazine Golden Age, published in Bern, Switzerland, by the International Bible Students Society, alleging among other things that the Berne edition of the journal continuously attacked the Nazi regime.

Harbeck, who was allowed to communicate with the American consulate-general, also was accused of attempting to remove money from attached properties of the International Bible Students Society's, sealed printing plant at Mueggenburg and of maintaining connections with the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, banned by the Nazis.

Anti-Jewish demonstrations, accompanied by intermittent violence, of Monday and Tuesday, were overshadowed by the increasing bitterness of the now open conflict between church and state, and storm troops, ordered to wear their uniforms while the disturbances continued, were told they might take them off again.

This, the propaganda ministry interpreted as positive proof that "normal conditions had been re-established and no recurrence of anti-Jewish riots need be feared."

Anti-Semitic propaganda continued, however, in the shape of advertisements of the rabid anti-Jew journal Stuermer, while the newspaper Juden-Kenner, its rival in bitter diatribes against Jews, openly urged the death penalty for Jews guilty of intimate relations with Aryan women.

Policemen Face Charges for Killing Dogs

Patrolman K. C. Wooster, Chief T. O. Sturdivant and Patrolman R. C. Tuggle (left to right), shown at the hearing in Judge Virlyn B. Moore's court, where a permanent injunction to restrain police from shooting stray and unlicensed dogs was denied Walter A. Jennings, Atlanta lawyer. Warrants charging Wooster and Tuggle with malicious mischief in connection with the slaying of two canine pets were sworn out yesterday afternoon and their case will be heard in criminal court this morning. POLICE TO FACE TRIAL FOR KILLING PET DOGS the two pet dogs of Jennings, which are licensed and inoculated, shall not be killed or harmed in any way.

Court Lacks Authority.
As the court construes this prayer, said Judge Moore, referring to Jennings' plea for an injunction, "it is an effort on the part of the plaintiff, by injunctive relief, to force said T. O. Sturdivant to abide by and carry out the ordinances of the city of Atlanta as incorporated in his petition. (The ordinance meant requires dogs shall be impounded for five days before being executed.)

"The court has no authority, by injunctive relief or injunction, to force the defendant (Chief Sturdivant), to abide by and carry out said ordinance," Judge Moore declared.

"It is the opinion of this court that the chief of police cannot enforce an ordinance which requires that dogs shall be inoculated and tagged by re-

Boy, 12, Ends Own Life Following Reprimand

LEEDS, Ala., July 18.—(AP)—Ten minutes after his mother had reprimanded him, the body of 12-year-old Hugh Nash was found hanging from a rafter in the barn at the Nash home, five miles south of here.

Dr. E. C. Clayton, of Leeds, who was summoned to the home, said the boy's mother had reprimanded him and sent him to the barn to perform some tasks.

A short time later a younger brother went to the barn and found Hugh's body hanging from a rafter in the alleyway. Other members of the family were called.

Dr. Clayton said the boy died of strangulation, as his neck was not broken.

quiring that all dogs be killed which are not so licensed and tagged," he said.

All Sorts of Dogs.

"The merits of the dog have commanded the favorable attention of Senator Vest and others who have said him many glowing tributes and he is held in the highest esteem by many good citizens.

"However, a dog has not a universally good name. There are all sorts of dogs, both good and bad. The Holy Writ classifies dogs along with sorcerers, murderers, idolaters and those who love and make a lie," the judge stated.

He said there was much conflicting evidence offered in the hearing, which began Wednesday afternoon and was continued yesterday. Affidavits stating that officers had killed dogs on private property were presented by Jennings and other affidavits from Wooster and Tuggle denying they had ever killed a dog except those obviously strays found in the streets, and some with the permission of the owner, were offered by Bond Almand, assistant city attorney, who represented Sturdivant.

Promises Many Cases.

Jennings said yesterday he had more than 40 cases which he will bring into court in an effort to stop the promiscuous slaying of dogs by police.

Chief Sturdivant's order which started the war on dogs following the death of a dog from hydrophobia, read in part: "Hereafter all police officers will kill any dog found on the streets without a dog tag and any vicious dog whether he is tagged or not." Jennings averred that this order endangered the lives of his pets.

Jennings and Frank Bowers, representing J. C. Sweatman, of 325 Warren street, have already filed suit against Sturdivant, Wooster and Tuggle in municipal court for $25 damages in connection with the slaying of Sweatman's 3-year-old son's canine pet.

To Continue Fight.
The lawyers, who are attorneys for the Atlanta Humane Society, say they plan to continue their fight relentlessly. They pointed out their battle is only against the indiscriminate killing of all dogs and is not concerned with dogs actually suffering with rabies or which are vicious.

Warrants against Wooster and Tuggle were issued by W. R. Honea, clerk of the criminal court, who notified Assistant Chief A. J. Holcombe to have the officers appear in Judge Rosser's court this morning.

'Woman in Red,' Dillinger Nemesis, Denies Betraying Him to 'G-Men'

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, July 18.—The "woman in red," popularly supposed to have put John Dillinger on the spot for the "G" men a year ago, July 22, was found in Chicago today, living a prosaic life.

She is Mrs. Anna Sage, comely red-haired Romanian, and she told her story for the first time.

She denied that she "put the finger on Dillinger" and she revealed that she had not fled from Chicago after the action-packed night when the most-busted desperado in the world was shot down as he strolled out of the Biograph theater here, with the "woman in red" on one arm and Polly Hamilton on the other.

Rumor had her fleeing to Roumania to escape gang vengeance of Dillinger's pals. As a matter of fact she lives within a few blocks of the spot where Dillinger made his last stand on Chicago's northwest side.

She disclosed that she had broken her friendship with Polly, whom she had known for many years. She blamed Polly for many of the "lies" which she said were responsible for popularizing her as the woman who led Dillinger into the death trap.

Knew Him as "Jimmy."
Bitterly she denied she knew the man who played cards in her home and took her to theaters and night clubs was John Dillinger. To her he was "Jimmy Lawrence," a board of trade employee.

"Why once," she said, "after a bank raid in South Bend in which Dillinger was said to have been involved and in which one man was killed and three wounded, he sat sipping coffee and reading newspaper accounts of the holdup.

"I said, 'that's a horrible thing. The men who did that should be captured and hung.'

"Jimmy said that of thoughtful for a moment, and without looking up from his paper, said, 'Yeah. I guess you're right. That's pretty lousy, isn't it?'

Recalling her first meeting with "Jimmy," Mrs. Sage said Polly brought him to her Halsted street apartment about a month before he was killed, and several months after his sensational "wooden gun" escape from the Crown Point, Ind., jail. Polly introduced him as Jimmy Lawrence.

Never Saw Gun.
"I thought he was a very nice looking young man," Mrs. Sage said. "There was nothing about him to mark him apart from thousands of other men. He was kind and considerate of others. I liked him and he and Polly used to take me to theaters all over the city. How could I know he was the most hunted criminal in the world?"

"Police were everywhere we went and I never saw 'Jimmy' make any attempt to avoid them. I never saw him carry a gun."

Scotting at reports she had fled Chicago to save her life, Mrs. Sage asserted she had done nothing for which pals of Dillinger need seek vengeance.

"If Dillinger's pals believed me responsible for his death they would have found me no matter where I went. I have no reason to be afraid."

That fatal night when Dillinger walked into the death trap laid by Melvin Purvis and his Department of Justice agents, "will never be erased from my mind," she said.

"Jimmy and Polly were at my home that day and decided to attend a movie. Jimmy couldn't seem to make up his mind where he wanted to go. Finally, he decided on the Biograph theater only a block away. We went there to see a gangster picture, 'Manhattan Melodrama.'

Fatal Exit.
"I had no idea government men were waiting for us to come out of that theater. When we stepped onto the sidewalk it seemed as though the world had come to an end."

"Jimmy, Polly and I were all together as we came out. Shot after shot was fired. Jimmy broke away from us and began to run. Then I don't know exactly what happened."

"Dimly, I remember seeing Jimmy fall. Then I grabbed Polly by the hand and fled from the scene to my home. An hour later I learned the real identity of 'Jimmy' when the newshy appeared in the streets shouting: 'Dillinger slain.'

"Almost a week later the police raided my apartment and arrested me. They said I put Dillinger on the spot for the government men and tried to make me admit I did."

"The police were wrong. I did not put Dillinger on the spot. I couldn't have put him on the spot because I didn't know he was Dillinger."

"I know I can never forget that horrible night but I hope that time will dim its memory."

MONEY-SAVING PLANS DISCUSSED BY MAYORS

Collective Purchasing, Tax
Reforms Among Matters
Brought Up Here.

Collective purchasing of staple city supplies, tax reforms to supplement incomes which local governments will lose if the proposed 13-mill ad valorem tax limitation is approved, extension of zoning authority to smaller towns of the state and a Georgia-wide drive to enlist every municipality in the organization were considered yesterday at a meeting of officers and directors of the Georgia Municipal Association at the Ansley hotel.

Mayor J. D. Ashley, of Valdosta, president, presided, and Mayor Key, of Atlanta, first president of the organization, whose illness prevented him from attending the annual convention held recently at Albany, spoke, urging a comprehensive tax system in lieu of revenues which will be lost to local governments through final approval of the tax limitation measure.

Key predicted that the tax limitation proposal will be approved in the state general election in 1936.

"I believe the people will ratify the constitutional amendment," Key said. "We should have a well defined program by that time. When that amendment is passed, it is important that municipalities be given a square deal, and they will be if we are ready with a fair program to offer."

Centralized Buying Plan.
It was pointed out that cities could save from 25 to 30 per cent on purchases of fire hose, sewer pipe and other supplies if large quantities were bought through a central agency, and further study is to be given the proposition.

Mayor T. R. Luck, of Carrollton, injected the zoning authority extension into the meeting, pointing out that at the present time cities of less than 25,000 population have no way of preventing residential districts from ill-considered inroads of undesirable businesses. That, too, will be considered at a later date.

Zack Arnold, executive secretary of the organization, told the directors that he plans to raise the present membership of 80 to at least 215 during the current year. He solicited the aid of the officers and directors in the drive to carry the advantages of the organization to the smaller communities of Georgia.

Co-operation Pledged.
Those present pledged unreserved co-operation, said the members, campaign, already launched by Arnold, will be continued unabated. There are nearly 600 incorporated towns and cities in the state, and Arnold's ultimate goal is to bring every one of them into the organization.

In addition to Mayor Ashley, Mayor Key and Arnold, among others who attended were: Mayor James A. Fort, Americus, first vice president; E. L. Bass, East Point, treasurer, and Mayors H. E. Allen Jr., Augusta; R. S. Imman, Thomasville, and E. D. Barrett, district vice presidents; Directors Ernest M. Smith, McDonough; D. T. Brown, Jonesboro; J. L. Brown, Cordle; J. H. Sheppard, Edison; J. E. Drake, Bainbridge; T. R. Luck, Carrollton; H. T. Flannigan, Winder; Lonnie A. Pope, Douglas; R. S. O'Neal, LaGrange.

District Vice Presidents Homer Dimon, mayor of Columbus, was represented by William Woodsley; Dr. W. A. Palmer, mayor of Gainesville, by A. W. Bell; A. P. McKay, mayor of Rome, by O. M. Lanham, city manager.

Dr. W. R. Wilson, of Douglas, was a visitor at the sessions.

"FOR 9,220 MILES MY NEW DODGE HAS AVERAGED 21 1/4 MILES PER GALLON"

says
J. L. MEAGHER of VALPARAISO, INDIANA
"...and it has saved me about 20¢ on every dollar's worth of oil."

EVERY day tens of thousands of Dodge owners save millions of money-saving miles. And week after week—month after month—they continue to get gas and oil mileage that has always been considered impossible. They write in to the factory and tell their friends at home that they are getting 18-20-22 and even more miles per gallon.

This astounding economy has been deliberately engineered into the new Dodge. The powerful "Red Ram" engine has a combination of economy features that save you money every mile you drive. And Dodge owners say that these consistent gas, oil and upkeep savings soon make up the difference in price between the big, comfortable

Dodge and small, lowest-priced, competitive cars.

Drive a Dodge. Make the FREE economy test. See for yourself how much Dodge saves you. Examine the sturdy construction of the safe, Dodge all-steel body. THE BEST RELIEF PLAN

Announcement that the rural relief program has sent 290,155 families, consisting of approximately 1,500,000 members, back to the farm means that many of these families are permanently off the relief rolls and the amount necessary for the support of the others is materially less than that required when they were among the unemployed in the cities.

Of the 290,000 families, approximately 70,000 have already become self-supporting, with most of the others now requiring but little aid.

An average expenditure of only $101 per family was needed to establish these million and a half men, women and children on a self-supporting basis—a sum that would have supplied them with food and shelter in the cities for but two or three months and would have left them no better off than they were before receiving it.

In Georgia, 13,658 families have been re-established on the farm, reducing the abandoned farms in the state to approximately 50,000, the majority of which are comprised of fine agricultural land on which a wide variety of crops can be produced.

Not until these farms are repopulated, relieving the cities of the state of the burden of an excess population for which there is no work and giving back to the counties the residents they need, will the state be on a sound and normal footing.

The shift in population during the two decades between 1910 and 1930 is chiefly responsible for the unemployment problem faced by the nation during the past five years. Twenty years ago there were 10,000,000 more people living in rural areas than in urban centers, but by 1930 this population distribution had undergone so marked a change that there were 10,000,000 more in the cities than on the farms.

Three-fourths of the unemployed in the cities are members of families which once lived on farms, and the only way that the unemployment problem will be permanently solved is through the repopulation of the once prosperous agricultural sections of the country.

ALCATRAZ FOR HARVEY SMITH

Revelation that federal prison officials contemplate sending Leland Harvey and Aubrey Smith, notorious Georgia prison-escape artists, to Alcatraz prison in San Francisco Bay in the event their recent convictions are upheld by the circuit court of appeals, brings assurance that the government is determined the slippery pair shall pay the full penalty ordered by the federal court at Rome.

Although convicted on numerous occasions during the past few years and sentenced to terms totaling more than a hundred years each, neither has ever completed a sentence. Either through escapes, legal moves or by parole, they have managed to get out from behind the bars.

On bleak Alcatraz Island, surrounded by the swift currents of San Francisco Bay, they will be incarcerated in the one prison in America that so far has lived up to the designation of "escape-proof." The prison is constructed along the most modern lines and the discipline is rigid and firm.

To this American "Devil's Island" are sent only prisoners whose records have proven them to be unrepentant for their misdeeds and prone to give trouble. It is not surprising that Harvey and Smith, in view of their many escapes, seem destined for Alcatraz.

In states having "habitual criminal" laws, under which a sentence of life imprisonment is automatically imposed on conviction of a law-breaker for the third time,

British-German Naval Pact.
On the face of it, the pact which has been concluded in all haste between Great Britain and Germany looks foolish. Why should Germany, which has no colonies to defend and which has no long coastline to protect, be allowed to construct a formidable navy, which makes her supreme in the Baltic sea? Everybody has been guessing what Britain's intentions were with this pact. That intention is now a little clearer. Britain allows Germany to build a fleet in return for something else. That's obvious. But what is that consideration? Personally I think Germany undertakes to stand by Britain in the event of war. In other words, the German fleet becomes the auxiliary of the British fleet.

WHY BRITAIN IS WORRIED
Back of the anxiety Great Britain has exhibited over the controversy between Italy and Ethiopia is the question of Lake Tsana, the great lake in Emperor Haile Selassie's domain that furnishes the life blood of agriculture in the Sudan through the waters of the Nile.

For 30 years the British government has conducted negotiations for the building of a dam at Tsana to control the waters of the Nile, these negotiations having reached a stage where confidence was fully a conference scheduled for May to would bring a definite agreement between the two countries. This conference was indefinitely postponed following the development of the Italian-Ethiopian imbroglio.

Through the proposed dam Great Britain planned to prevent disastrous floods, and provide a regular flow of water throughout the year, regardless of rainy and dry seasons.

At the time of the postponement of the May conference, Captain Anthony Eden explained to the house of commons that the government "was fully mindful of the interests of Egypt and the Sudan in the upper Nile basin, but inasmuch as these interests have been recognized in the past by Ethiopian, French and Italian governments, Great Britain is content to await a more suitable moment before pressing further on the long-coveted plan for a controlling dam."

Mussolini frankly admits that Italy wants an Ethiopian protectorate for economic reasons—chiefly in order that she may secure the raw materials that do not exist within her own borders. Should the protectorate be secured the Rome government might seek to divert large quantities of the Lake Tsana waters from the Nile for use in the development of water power and irrigation projects.

Such a program would mean ruin to large areas in Egypt, where practically every foot of tillable land is under cultivation and where the crops are dependent upon irrigation through the use of the Nile waters.

It is not surprising that Captain Eden, again appearing before the house of commons on Thursday, assured the members that the government will "stand back of Ethiopia's rights as a member of the League of Nations." Certainly Great Britain has nothing to gain and may become involved in a serious controversy with Italy should the latter become dominant in Ethiopia.

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND

The anti-Semitic riots in Berlin and other German cities this week differ from those of a year or so ago in that they have been staged over the protest of the "high-ups" in the government while the former atrocities were conducted under the direct orders of Hitler and his subordinates.

Thus the nazis are reaping the whirlwind for having taken the bridge of racial prejudice and turned their armed organizations into crusading bodies for "Aryan supremacy."

Sooner or later the Hitler regime will have to pay in full for the folly of its anti-Jewish policies, and it is not improbable that the settlement of this score may play a dominant part in the downfall of dictatorial government and the reclaiming by the German people of political and economic freedom.

Vendors at ball games in Moscow cry "Gorachie Sobachki!" However, it is the Russian for "hot dog" and no reflection on the empire.

No doubt a parole board back in those times would have taken into consideration that Jesse James was kind to his horse.

July 19, 1935. Samuel Holt was born in Hartford, Conn., destined to run away from school at 13 and ship before the mast as a cabin boy on an East India voyage. On the long trip to Calcutta he evolved the first machine with a revolving chamber, carrying the first one from wood. When he finally patented the revolver at the age of 21, the boards decided it was impractical!

THE WORLD WAR 20 YEARS AGO TODAY.

July 19, 1915. German officials who had been deriding satisfaction from the difficulties encountered by the British government in settling the strike of the South Wales coal miners, suddenly realized that the first war was at home. In the Leipziger Volkszeitung of this date, three socialist spokesmen—Haase, Bernstein and Kautsky—published a declaration in favor of early peace. They headed it, "A Necessity of the Hour."

The official leaders of the social democratic party issued a counter-declaration, but in this document they acknowledged for the first time that the government must be ready for peace negotiations at the first opportunity.

The chief party organ, Vorwaerts, which published this counter-declaration, was temporarily suppressed by the government. Nevertheless, the government had to face the fact that the war was becoming unpopular with an increasing number of persons. The masses were daily having more troubles both in finding suitable food and in their money in getting food at any price. The iron hand that had dealt so ruthlessly with Belgium, was now laid upon profiteers, but with a velvet touch.

WRITING WRONGS.

You're just supposing if you believe that fish can't sing. There are several varieties capable of producing sounds and one of them, the so-called Mexican canary fish, can make so much noise that it can be heard through the glass and water of an aquarium for as much as 10 yards. Their singing is a sort of wail, something like a radio crooner.

BY PAUL MALLON.

ABSORPTION WASHINGTON, July 18.—New Dealers in the higher altitudes here have been tittering for weeks about the way they took General Johnson in as works progress administrator for New York. It seems, that, after leaving NRA, the general got under the hide of Relief Boss Hopkins (if not also the President himself) by going around the country following after the boondoggling in the relief administration.

The boys on the inside say it was Mr. Hopkins who conceived the idea of shutting up his critic by absorbing him. Mr. Hopkins went to the President and urged that Johnson be recalled to the colors and put in charge of the world's largest boondoggling center, New York city.

The general swallowed the bait and landed in New York to show those fellows up there how to administer relief. . . .

NEW TUNE It was not long until Johnson implied that perhaps some boondoggling was necessary. At any rate, he would not attempt to do it all over. His fate as a boondoggling kiltiber was not definitely established, however, until the list of New York city projects approved by Mr. Roosevelt was given out. Since then, the sleeve-lauding here has been concealed with difficulty.

RECREATION As an indication of what General Johnson has found to be a good relief project (with the President's approval), his list contains an item of $31,500 "to furnish recreational leadership" for nurses and internes in hospitals. Formerly some New Dealers had assumed the nurses and internes were having a fairly good time. In fact, certain hospital critics have insinuated occasionally that they were having too good a time. However, anything that was lacking before can certainly be made up with the $31,500.

INFORMATION Most of the projects are designed, however, to disclose information for which the world long has panted in suspense. For instance, there is $7,350 to investigate the effect of a subway and highways in Queens; $130,200 for preparation of a suburban map showing the contour of roads under the city. To show what is holding it up, $29,400 for a study of every lot in Queens; $27,750 to determine the effect that buses have on the speed of passenger transportation; $34,650 for an index digest of all aeronautical magazines; $44,400 to "mobilize neighborhood resources for the promotion of wholesome behavior among children."

AIDE MEMOIRE Do not let anyone tell you that the New Deal has forgotten the supreme court defeat it suffered in the Schechter poultry case. Johnson's new boondoggling includes $178,500 "to investigate the entire live poultry industry in New York city."

SCENTS If you look into Johnson's list very closely you will find some other relief projects which are badly needed. For instance, the item is $208,800 to find out what is in the air in New York. Visitors have occasionally complained there was something wrong with it, particularly in the crowded subway stations.

Also, it has been apparent there is something foul about the atmosphere in Wall Street, especially since the New Deal. All this will undoubtedly be covered by the air-pollution survey, which will give "special attention to both chemical and bacteriological impurities."

LEGALISMS The best legal authorities here believe the Massachusetts supreme court decision against the AAA whittles down the interstate commerce clause to a railroad yardstick.

The supreme court decision in the Schechter case said that poultry was no longer in interstate commerce after it arrived at the point of destination. The Massachusetts court said cotton was not in interstate commerce until it started moving from the point of origin.

If such interpretations hold, the federal government will have jurisdiction only over products while actually in transit.

CONFIDENCE President Roosevelt and the other New Dealers did not take the AAA setback very much to heart. They seem to have developed something of a persecution complex which steels them against criticism and reverses; believing they are right, they do not have much trouble convincing themselves that their adversaries are only the rich, the political opponents and the satellites of both.

CONFESSION Huey Long sent out a letter to his supporters recently saying the newspapers told lies about him. One of their worst, he said, was their insinuation that he was a rich man, adding: "If I could sell everything I own, which is not much, I could not pay one

NEW CRISIS REACHED IN JAP NEGOTIATIONS

Tokyo Government Comes Into Conflict With Mon- gols, Russians, Chinese.

TOKYO, July 18.—(AP)—Japan, steadily expanding her influence in continental Asia, came into conflict with Mongols, Russians and Chinese today.

A new crisis was reached in negotiations for settlement of the border disputes between Manchoukuo, Japanese-dominated empire, and independent outer Mongolia, Rengo (Japanese) News Agency reported, with the possibility that Manchoukuo might demilitarize part of Mongolia.

Earlier Rengo dispatches from Harbin, Manchoukuo, said Japanese seeking alluvial gold in the Amur river, July 9 were fired upon by soviet guards, and the engine of their small river boat was disabled.

Manchoukuo's foreign office announced its intention to protest energetically to Moscow this latest in the long series of "incidents" along the disputed Manchoukuo-Siberia border.

Meanwhile, reports from Kalgan, Chahar province, north China, said the Japanese Kwantung army had demanded that the Japanese advisers be placed in all departments of the Chahar government, Chinese termed this an indication of further Japanese expansion in north China.

Japan's newest verbal clash with outer Mongolia occurred at Manchili, the Rengo correspondent reported, when the Japanese member of the Manchoukuo delegation delivered "representations on behalf of the Manchoukuo foreign office" said to insist on "an exchange of resident representatives between Manchoukuo and outer Mongolia, with freedom of facilities to communicate with their respective governments in order to prevent a misunderstanding in disputes between the two countries."

Should Mongolia refuse, Rengo's dispatch said, "Manchoukuo may be constrained to request outer Mongolia to withdraw all troops from the area east of Tsoungtsun," village southwest of Lake Bor.

What would happen should this second request be refused was not stated but the implication was that military pressure would follow with the Japanese army, on behalf of its protégé Manchoukuo, using all means necessary to compel demilitarization of Mongolian territory just as the Chinese, Chahar and Hopei provinces, China, were demilitarized.

BANK SUSPENSIONS LOWEST SINCE WAR

at time of suspension indicated about $1,300,000,000 had been paid out to depositors.

Prudent Holiday.

Most banks in receivership were said by officials to have fallen by the roadside before the bank holiday. The suspension roll for nine years and two months preceding the holiday totaled 6,685 banks with deposits of $4,067,344,000.

Post-war suspensions have cut the number of banks in the United States about in half, leaving around 15,500 institutions. But their deposits were reported substantially larger than in 1921.

Improvements in real estate and security markets has encouraged hope of faster liquidation of remaining assets in national banks in receivership. They were described as comparatively "slow" for highly liquid assets were drawn on first to pay off creditors.

National bank receiverships closed out since last October have increased to 55. From January 1, 1929, to June 30 of this year, 244 receiverships were closed under the supervision of the currency's office, with $5 restored to solvent. From the remaining 149, $38,712,942 was paid to depositors out of $31,915,963 in deposits at time of closing.

Eleven of the 14 banks suspended this year were members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

FIRST AID ON ROADS

Red Cross Seeks Stations on U. S. Highways.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—(AP)—A vigorous, nationwide drive to establish 15,000 roadside first-aid stations throughout the United States is being planned by the American Red Cross.

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Red Cross chairman, said today in revealing the undertaking for the first time, that the drive will be launched "some time this fall."

Persons trained in first aid will man each of the 15,000 emergency stations, and in addition to rendering assistance at the scene of accidents will show moving pictures and give first aid talks to persons interested. Telephone company employees and Ray and Girl Scouts will be asked to cooperate.

TWO ADMIT BURNING UTILITY FIRM PAPERS

phila with O'Brien, Beach and a "company attorney named Hill."

"Did you receive any kind?" Black asked.

"No. I told him my story and he told me to come before the committee and tell it the truth."

"You were on your way here to do just that anyway weren't you?"

"Yes, of course."

Under Black's questioning, Herron said he paid for the telegrams sent from Warren with "the company's money" supplied through O'Brien's personal check.

"What kind of receipts did you get?" Black demanded.

"Receipts, receipts."

"Why?"

"Well, we felt there was no use in burning our own papers."

Turning to the previously-told story of how Herron used the city directory in finding names for the telegrams urging Representative Driscoll, democrat, Pennsylvania, to oppose the utilities bill, Black asked Herron if he made use of that volume.

"Yes, in a way, I knew who would be in favor of the bill and who would not."

"How did you get so many names in the 'A-B-C-D's'?"

"I don't know."

He insisted that the papers he destroyed had nothing incriminating about them but were just well out of the way. He added that O'Brien "called me on the phone one afternoon and told me he was disposing of all the stuff he had."

O'Brien told him, he said, that Beach had said he was clearing out all his files on the Wheeler-Rayburn bill as the company was through with that matter.

Investigation Likely.

"That was after the papers had said there was likely to be an investigation, I think so."

"You say it was, don't you?"

"Yes, sir."

"His purpose was to keep them from being accessible to the investigation, wasn't it?"

"I don't know."

"Do you deny that it was?"

"No, sir."

Herron also said he informed Jack Fisher, Warren Western Union manager, that he had destroyed all his own files, and Fisher told him, he testified.

"It would be a good thing if we could have a fire here," he said.

"I see," Herron continued, "it would be easy enough to do. You could dump a barrel of kerosene in the basement and set fire to it."

"I see," said Black, "and it was that night that the originals were burned."

O'Brien Reluctant.

While the committee had difficulty pinning Herron down to direct answers, it found O'Brien, a round little man with a red face and a bald head, even more reluctant to speak out.

A series of rapid-fire questions would produce "maybes" and disclaimers of knowledge until finally he was worked down into a direct reply. It was to the effect that he "set aside, in a waste basket," records pertaining to the utility bill.

"Who told you to?" Black asked.

"I had information that papers pertaining to the Wheeler-Rayburn bill were no longer of any use."

"Mr. Beach?"

"What did he tell you?"

"To get rid of papers pertaining to the Wheeler-Rayburn bill."

"We're through with legislation work," he said through with legislation work.

"Beach did discuss the fact that there was going to be an investigation," Black persisted.

"That's possible."

"He did?"

"I'll say yes, then," O'Brien finally replied.

THE BOOK GAME

$1,800 in Cash Prizes for Book Titles!

(C) 1935, By Associated Publishers, Inc.

By THE BOOK GAME EDITOR.

"Should we 'pretty up' our Book Game entries?" is a question often put to this department. The answer is: "We wish you wouldn't."

The 35 Book Game prizes will not be arbitrarily awarded to those who turn in the best looking sets of pictures and solutions. This is not a contest of artistic skill. The contestants who submit the most appropriate title answers for the scenes depicted will be the winners, regardless of the manner in which their sets are prepared. Only in the event that two or more Book Gamers qualify for a prize, both having an equal number of most appropriate answers, will neatness and attractiveness be considered by the judges.

Book Game followers who would like to have extra copies of "The Romance of Books," by Belle Auenwies, may have this abridged publication free by calling, or by mail for a 3-cent stamp. "The Romance of Books" is an informative history of literature that should be in every home and library.

Thank You!

Inclosed find 54 cents, for which please send me the book, "What to Read." I am enjoying the game very much. I have always loved books, but live so far from the library that I haven't read very many lately. I am looking forward to possessing "What to Read," not only for help in the contest, but for the help I'm sure it will give, when I want to select a book to read later on. Thank you for a most enjoyable, diverting and inspirational pastime.—Mrs. L. R. Griffin, Ga.

A. "What to Read," is on its way to you now, and we're sure you'll find it as enjoyable and helpful as you expect. We're glad you like our Book Game, and hope you keep on enjoying it.

Thank You!

I am not an eminent educator, author, librarian or clergyman, but I do think this Book Game the finest contest you have put on. It is most interesting and instructive. However, I think if each contestant got his entry back, showing his deficiency, it would be interesting. I have been told this will be a "drawn" contest, and but few entries will be graded. Is this true?—Mrs. M. A. B. Marietta, Ga.

A. We appreciate your kind comment. We cannot undertake to return the Book Game sets submitted. However, if each contestant will keep an accurate list of the titles he uses, he can easily check that against the master list of titles when it is published.

We do not know who "told" you that this is a "drawn" contest, but it was a wild guess, and entirely wrong. This department assures you that nobody has any more idea than you have who will win the 35 prizes, and nobody will know until all of the answers have been checked. We promise you that this is "on the level," and the Constitution has enough confidence in this department to back up our statement. As for there being any of the sets not checked: Aside from the question of honesty, wouldn't that be sheer stupidity on our part? Suppose we do not check over all the sets. When the winners are announced, the complete list of most appropriate titles will be published in The Constitution. Don't you suppose that among those sets not checked there might possibly be a set that tallies exactly with the published list. And the contestant who submitted that set would have a perfect right to expect a prize. Come on now, give us credit for doing all in our power to insure that every entrant has an equal opportunity to win a prize, and for being a little bit too decent and intelligent to do otherwise.

We Have Them.

LION OF UDAH CALLS HIS SUBJECTS TO ARMS

from the provinces had but lately been drilling barefoot in the dust, learning the rudiments of modern warfare, as Haile Selassie told his people Italy's intention to use modern scientific methods of warfare would be met with Ethiopia's united resistance.

Selassie's Plea.

Many in the audience wept as he continued:

"Soldiers, when on the battlefield you learn the death of your beloved and respected chief, who has fallen in the defense of liberty do not weep and do not despair but think of those who died for the fatherland as happy mortals."

"Soldiers, traders, peasants, young and old men and women: Unite and co-operate for the defense of your country."

"As in the past, women will heroically participate in the defense of the country, encouraging the soldiers and treating the wounded."

"Regardless of faith, all will face the invader in common unity, thwarting the efforts of Italy to create discord between Christians and Mohammedans."

"Your sovereign, now speaking, will be among you unhesitatingly to spill all his blood for independence!"

Hits "Civilizing Mission."

Revealing for the first time that Ethiopia had accepted Britain's fated proposal for three-way exchange of land to avert war, which Italy rejected, Haile Selassie reminded parliament the soldiers and the country that Ethiopia wanted peace.

His appeal to the United States under the Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war and Ethiopia's repeated appeals to the League of Nations, resulting in initiation of final steps by the League council, was proof of his peaceful aims, he said.

Efforts to avert war have been unavailing, however, the emperor continued, because of Italy's determination to avenge in blood the defeat Italy suffered at Adus, Ethiopia, in 1896.

He termed an insult to Ethiopia Mussolini's charge that Ethiopian barbarity precluded peaceful settlement of the dispute, and Id Duce's refusal of Italy's "civilizing mission" in Africa.

Tribe Loyalty Pledged.

A moving demonstration of Ethiopian unity to Haile Selassie came at the emperor's speech as the Somali chief of Ogaden rose and, speaking in Arabic, which was translated into the state language, Amharic, pledged his own loyalty and that of his people in the apparently approaching fight.

Afterward ministers, chiefs of the clergy, military leaders and other dignitaries met in Menelik square, while there, they demonstrated of popular enthusiasm surrounded.

Members of the German colony meeting with the German ambassador meanwhile decided to remain in Addis Ababa, even in case of war.

MUSSOLINI DECLARES ALL IN READINESS

ROME, July 18.—(AP)—The authoritative review, "Affari Esteri" (foreign affairs), today said Italy's aims in Ethiopia were absolute control of Ethiopia's military forces and the right to settle Italians in the African empire.

That disclosure came shortly after Premier Benito Mussolini informed the nation Italy's military preparations in Ethiopia were already in shape "to face present and future tasks."

He telegraphed to General Emilio De Bono, who for six months has been high commissioner for East African colonies, after receiving De Bono's reports:

"All that is necessary for the life of the empire on 10 times increased and of the metropolitan and native army—roads, water, foodstuffs, barracks, communications, hospitals and an infinite number of other necessities—have been provided for despite the difficulties which . . . have been immense."

In regard to military services, much remains to do, but I believe the most difficult period has passed."

"Affari Esteri" which often reflects official opinion, said Italy would like to achieve her aims in Ethiopia peacefully, if possible. If not, its article said, the nation stands ready to try other means.

LONDON VIEWS PLEA AS CALL TO ARMS

LONDON, July 18.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie's stirring appeal to Ethiopia to defend its independence to the last man—interpreted in some diplomatic quarters here as tantamount to general mobilization, today gave new impetus to Britain's efforts for peace.

Discussions at home and Paris seeking ways to avert war continued, while various peace organizations and advocates pressed for decisive action based on the League of Nations' covenant.

The cabinet met, considered British move at the forthcoming council meeting at Geneva and determined to speed up the diplomatic activity despite the dark outlook. What specific decision, if any, as to procedure the cabinet reached was not revealed.

Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, vigorously supported conciliatory policies in an address delivered to the Foreign Press Association. Without mentioning Ethiopia specifically, he said:

Eden Reassuring.

"I shall try to make peace and, of course, in reconciliation where peace and reconciliation are possible."

Anthony Eden, secretary for League affairs who will head the delegation to Geneva, assured Geoffrey Mandel, of the liberal opposition, in the house of commons that Britain would not join Italy in exerting pressure on Ethiopia but would "have full regard to her rights and obligations of states members of the League during the present negotiations."

The commons also learned from Eden that the government was requiring all exporters of planes to Ethiopia to obtain export licenses, though this requirement was not enforced in the case of any other country.

"Black and White" Peril.

Meanwhile Viscount Cecil, writing in the national labor party fortnightly "News Letter," urged the government to take adequate steps in conjunction with other League members, "however drastic they may be," for the preservation of peace should current negotiations fail.

Demanding that British delegates to Geneva make the lead, Lord Cecil warned that "war between black and white" whatever the immediate result, "holds

CEPHAS L. BARTON, 46, IS FOUND SHOT DEAD

President of Arkansas Coca-Cola Bottling Co. Was Former Attorney.

Cephas L. Barton, president of the Arkansas Coca-Cola Bottling Company, mayor of Camden, Ark., and a former Atlanta, was found shot to death in his home in Camden early yesterday morning.

The mayor was found fatally wounded with his 16-gauge automatic shotgun, it was announced by Pat Greening, Camden police chief. "He was shot through the head and the wound was apparently self-inflicted," the police chief said, according to press dispatches. No inquest was planned.

Barton, who was 46 years of age, was a soda fountain clerk in a Moreland avenue pharmacy 18 years ago when he became acquainted with the late Asa G. Candler Sr., founder of the Coca-Cola Company. Candler took an immediate fancy to the young man and employed him as a salesman for the Coca-Cola Company, sending him to cover the state of Arkansas.

Six years later, Barton was made president of the Arkansas Coca-Cola Bottling Company. He had been elected mayor of the city less than four months ago and for a number of years had been a prominent member of the Chamber of Commerce and had been identified with numerous civic enterprises.

He was a native of Pine Log, Ga., a small community near Cartersville. He returned from Arkansas for a brief period and was married to the former Miss Grace Tubbs, of Atlanta. He was the son of the late I. B. Barton and Anna E. Barton.

Barton is survived by his mother, his wife, five sisters, Mrs. W. E. Donald, Mrs. C. J. Gary, Mrs. H. J. Floyd and Mrs. Mary Hughes, all of Atlanta, and Mrs. A. E. Ritchie, of East Orange, N. J., and two brothers, A. L. and C. A. Barton, of Atlanta. The body will be brought to Atlanta tomorrow and funeral services will be conducted Sunday at the chapel of Harry G. Poole. Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

LAY METHODISTS END OBJECTIVES SESSION

North Georgia board of lay activities of the Methodist church ended a two days' meeting at the Imperial hotel yesterday. A list of objectives for laymen, as outlined by the board, will be mailed to churches in this district, it was announced at the close of the meeting by Smith L. Johnston, of Woodstock, secretary.

Dr. J. E. Crawford, of the general board of lay activities of the Southern Methodist church, spoke on "A Finance Plan for the Local Church." Members of the board who took part in open forums were I. S. Ingram, of Carrollton, conference lay leader; W. S. Allen, of Greenville; Emmett M. Williams, of Monroe; T. Jack Leno, of Young Harris; A. J. McClure, of Canton; J. W. O. McKibben, of Rome; H. S. COUNTY PROBE GROUP AWAITS TESTIMONY

Probe of Fulton county's financial affairs and charges of a "political job racket" being operated by the majority faction of the county commission, will be taken up by a special grand jury committee immediately testimony and evidence is assembled.

Transcription of short-hand notes taken Tuesday by B. B. Barrett, court reporter, and other detail work has delayed consideration of the information by the committee of nine, which was appointed Wednesday by George W. McCarty, foreman of the July-August grand jury. The investigation was brought about by Commissioner George E. Longino Jr., who charged the majority faction of the board is wrecking the county's financial set-up through waste and extravagance in administration. He called useless employees allegedly put on the pay roll this year "parasites."

COOL, RAINY WEATHER FORECAST FOR TODAY

More showers and comparatively cool weather are in store for Atlanta today, according to George W. Minding, meteorologist here. The temperature will reach a maximum of 87 or 88 degrees and there will be local showers.

The city experienced its first comparatively cool day in several weeks yesterday, the high temperature reading being only 85 degrees. An especially heavy shower fell in the afternoon, the rainfall totaling .25 inch.

The only injury reported during the heavy rain was that of Calvin Robinson, 5-year-old negro. He was struck by an automobile driven by M. A. Davis, of 964 Matthews street, on Forrest avenue, near Felton drive, and suffered a fracture of the right leg and lacerations of the jaw. Davis took the boy to Grady hospital for treatment, according to police reports.

TUXEDO PARK TRACT IS BOUGHT BY WILBY

An eight-acre lot in the Tuxedo Park section has been bought by R. R. Wilby, Atlanta theaterman, it was learned yesterday. Plans for a home which Mr. Wilby expects to build on the lot are in the hands of Frazer & Bond, architects, it was said.

Charles H. Black, agent for the Tuxedo Park Company, sold the property to Mr. Wilby and his wife, Mrs. Alma Wilby. The tract runs back from Tuxedo road and measures 300 by 1,353 feet. The amount to be spent on the construction of the home was not disclosed. One clause in the deed stipulates that the cost must exceed $20,000, it was said.

DRIVER BOUND OVER AFTER FATAL CRASH

R. E. Hareless, 23, of 451 Highland avenue, who police say confessed being the driver of an automobile involved in an accident Sunday which resulted in the death of Miss Ryell Vaughan, 20, of 382 Parkway drive, was bound over to the Fulton county court on charges of involuntary manslaughter and violation of the state motor vehicle law yesterday.

Bond was set at $1,000 in the manslaughter charge and $500 in the vehicle law violation charge.

Miss Vaughan was injured fatally when the truck in which she was riding collided with an automobile at Glen Iris drive and Angier avenue. The truck was driven by E. E. Gentry, of Roswell.

HONAN IS FLOODED

Yellow River Tears Over First Line Dikes.

PEIPING, July 18.—(UP)—The swollen Yellow river, its flood waters coursing through the north China countryside in three broad streams, was reported today to have broken through the first line of dikes in northern Honan province, submerging a large area including several towns.

Eight counties in Shantung province were flooded, driving thousands of persons from their homes.

Smyrna Man Alleges They Stripped, Beat and Robbed Him.

Indictments charging two 19-year-old Atlantans with robbing and beating E. E. Branch, of Smyrna, early yesterday morning, will be presented the July-August grand jury when it meets at 10 o'clock this morning, the solicitor-general's office said yesterday.

The youths, who gave the names of Paul Crowe and F. M. Bryant, of Sunnyside road, were arrested by county police shortly after Branch had telephoned officers he was taken for a ride and beaten and robbed by two boys in a dilapidated old touring car.

Branch was stripped of all his clothing except his underwear and tie and put out on the road near the Whittier mill village. He said he accepted an offer by the two youths of a ride to Smyrna after he had missed his street car at the river. Instead of heading toward his home, he said Crowe and Bryant drove him in the opposite direction and then beat and robbed him.

He caught a ride back to the same sandwich shop where he met the two, and telephoned county police. A radio car was sent and found Crowe and Bryant near the river. Branch's clothing and watch were in the car, it was said.

Charles Stewart, of the solicitor-general's staff, drew up indictments charging both with highway robbery and assault and battery yesterday for presentation to the jury today.

Crowe and Bryant are held under bond of $2,000 each. Officers Fitzgerald and Davis made the arrests.

This camp will do soil erosion work in Carroll, Paulding, Douglas and Haralson counties.

The full quota of men, which will be 200, is expected by August.

MISS RUTHERFORD PAINTING APPROVED

Two Atlanta Alumnae of Lucy Cobb Defend Portrait of Noted Woman.

Friends of the late Miss Millie Rutherford, of Athens, may disapprove of Seymour Controv's portrait of the great Georgia woman, now in possession of the High Museum of Art here, but two prominent Atlanta women, both alumnae of Lucy Cobb Institute, like the painting.

The women are Mrs. Alfred C. Newell and Mrs. S. Clayton Callaway, and both expressed the opinion the portrait should be kept in the museum. Athens friends of Miss Rutherford Tuesday adopted a resolution "protesting" the portrait and urging its removal from the museum. They claimed it is not a "true likeness."

Controv, coming to the defense of the portrait, pointed out it was painted at a time when Miss Rutherford was in the midst of her fight to raise $250,000 to save Lucy Cobb Institute, and that it revealed her as she was at that time.

Mrs. Callaway said yesterday she attended school under Miss Rutherford and knew her very well.

"When I first picked up The Constitution I didn't recognize Miss Rutherford," she explained. "When I looked closely I did. I've seen few portraits I thought exactly right. The more you study Miss Rutherford's, however, the better you like it. It seems to me the artist caught her in a characteristic mood and position."

Mrs. Newell likewise expressed the opinion the portrait "grows upon one." "I was somewhat disappointed with the picture at first, but the longer I looked at it the better I liked it," she said. "I would like very much to keep it in the museum."

BAR ASSOCIATION IS SILENT ON DEAL

Committee Fails To Break 3-Day Deadlock on Controversial Report.

LOS ANGELES, July 18.—(UP)—The widely heralded diagnosis of the New Deal by the American Bar Association ended on the morrow night when the executive committee failed to break a three-day deadlock on the question of bringing it before the general session.

Lack of action automatically quashed what was expected to be the most controversial issue of the fifty-eighth annual convention, as failure of the executive committee to report closes the case at least until next November, when the committee will meet in executive session.

The report was expected to create a political furor within the convention, which ends its sessions tomorrow.

Failure of the committee to make its report virtually muzzled anti-New Dealers, who had promised flaming oratory on the occasion of the recess.

TROOPS AT M'PHERSON STRAFED BY AIRPLANES

Planes manned by reserve officers now in training at Candler field yesterday staged a mock attack on officers of the 326th infantry-reserve regiment during the infantry group's training at Fort McPherson.

The army planes were under command of Major Wylie R. White, of Atlanta, and the infantry was under control of Colonel F. S. Chalmers, of Atlanta.

The attack was planned to give the officers, commanding regular army troops, an opportunity to work out defense problems of ground troops being strafed by low-flying pursuit planes guided by hovering observation ships.

CAN BE AS Comfortable IN Summer AS YOUR FAVORITE Air Conditioned STORE

Air conditioning is bringing eternal Spring to the homes of Georgia! No longer need summer mean stifling, sweltering nights in which restful sleep is impossible. No more need you suffer from sun-baked days. This latest contribution of electricity to the pleasant art of better living offers perfect indoor comfort—clean, filtered, healthful air at whatever temperature you find most comfortable. Undoubtedly, you have shopped in one of the air conditioned stores listed below, or eaten in an air conditioned restaurant. Now you can have that same sort of "weather" in your home.

Air conditioning does these four important things. It maintains desired temperatures—coolness at the touch of a switch. It de-humidifies, by extracting excess moisture from the air—one of the most important factors in summer comfort. It maintains a continuous, gentle circulation of air, without drafts. It keeps air free from dust, lint and other impurities.

Full Line of Kelvinator Models

Electrical engineers have made air conditioning so easy to install and so low in both the cost of the equipment and the cost of operation that it now is thoroughly practical, for large home or small, for new house or old.

In the Kelvinator line are many models and sizes, all compactly constructed and finished in a selection of attractive designs. The floor type units, ideally suited for a majority of homes, are installed with the units in the rooms you wish conditioned and the refrigerating equipment in the basement or some other out-of-the-way place. Any number of rooms you wish may be air conditioned from the one compressor in the basement.

If room space is at a premium, there is the ceiling type unit, which can be installed either in the room itself or in a closet or cupboard. These units also may be operated from a single mechanism in the basement. And there is, too, the unit especially designed for conditioning the air in just one room, and which contains all mechanism in a single cabinet. It is easy to install and very inexpensive to operate.

The Westinghouse Mobilaire unit, which also includes all mechanism in a single cabinet, is equipped with rollers and may be pushed from one room to another on the same floor.

Find out about air conditioning for your home. Let our representative tell you how little it will cost for this year-round comfort. Ask him to show you the complete Kelvinator line and the Westinghouse Mobilaire. Or better yet, see home air conditioning equipment in actual operation at our store. You can install air conditioning for as little as 10 per cent down, with the balance payable over 24 months.

VENTILATING FANS BRING COMFORT

If you are not quite ready to install air conditioning in your home, investigate ventilating fans and air circulators. They offer great relief from the discomforts of summer's heat. Kitchen ventilating fans, priced from $22.50 to $39.50 cash, can be adjusted to fit any window frame. They rid the kitchen of fumes, odors and heat from the stove. A larger ventilating fan system, installed in the attic, causes a constant circulation of fresh air through the entire house by drawing the hot air through grills in the ceilings, as well as removing stored-up heat from walls, roof and ceilings, and expelling it through the attic. Terms are 10 per cent down, balance over 24 months.

that the $10,000,000 fund contains $1,250,000 for secondary roads and bridges on secondary roads, that this $1,250,000 is supposed to be expended over Georgia's 10 congressional districts and pointed out that if the $280,000 bridge is built, Congressman Vinson will be getting 25 per cent of a fund for one project when his district is not due more than 10 per cent for a number of projects.

Talmadge reiterated his views on this phase of the situation upon his arrival yesterday.

Would Be Favoritism.

"If the highway board initiates the Ball's Ferry bridge out of this fund and spends 25 per cent of the entire fund on one project in Vinson's district the other nine members of congress will have just complaints," the governor said. "They could rightly accuse the highway board of showing favoritism to Vinson."

Talmadge said he was convinced of two things as a result of his Washington trip on which he conferred with Vinson as well as with the President and Director Macdonald.

"In the first place, I have the President's assurance that the money will not be expended outside of our state and that it likely will not be spent by another agency," the governor said. "In addition, I became more and more convinced, as a result of my conference with Mr. Macdonald, that the Ball's Ferry bridge is the crux of the whole controversy, although the federal bureau claims our engineering force is inadequate. If we would approve the Ball's Ferry bridge we would have no further trouble."

Plenty of Engineers.

The governor said he cited to Director Macdonald that Georgia has nearly twice as many highway engineers on its state pay roll as Alabama, whereas that state is only slightly smaller than Georgia.

"I showed him, too, that Georgia was the only state in the south ready to put up the funds necessary for it to participate in the whole highway program," the governor said. "But the subject always went back to the Ball's Ferry bridge."

Asked in Washington if he saw any prospects of composing the differences between his bureau and Governor Talmadge, Macdonald yesterday said: "I can't answer that. The matter so far as I can see remains in status as it was, but I believe the governor has a better understanding of the problem."

This was the first expression by the roads bureau chief after collapse of efforts to untangle a situation which Wednesday brought together Talmadge and President Roosevelt.

To Repeat Visit.

Macdonald expressed hope the Governor would study the problem and return to Washington in another effort for a settlement. Talmadge said in Atlanta he would return to talk with Macdonald.

"I just can't help but feel the Governor is unduly prejudiced in this matter," Macdonald said. "So far as we are concerned we are always willing to make it easy for the states to cooperate with us."

The roads chief gave newspapermen his detailed explanation of the dispute over Ball's Ferry bridge, which the government wants but which Talmadge's highway board has refused to initiate. He gave newspapermen a formal notation, stating:

Two Issues Involved.

"There are only two issues involved in the Georgia highway situation: (1) The maintenance of an adequate and competent highway organization by the state of Georgia. (2) The acceptance of the legal authority of the federal government to require inclusion or exclusion of specific projects as a condition precedent to the approval of the program of projects as a whole."

In reducing the issues to the two propositions specified in his formal statement Mr. Macdonald said administration officials had been guided by only one thought—that of making it easier for the state to accept the conditions imposed.

In this connection he was quick to add that Georgia is not alone in running into similar difficulties with rules and regulations of the Federal Roads Bureau with respect to highway programs.

North Dakota recently presented a parallel case, he asserted, adding: "It became necessary for us to revise their highway program the same way but the matter was adjusted in a satisfactory manner after initial misunderstandings and only a few days ago we received a letter from the Governor of that state thanking us for our cooperation."

Seek Conciliation.

"We do not want to lay down rules that will be looked upon as too arbitrary in Georgia but are trying to be conciliatory. We are still hopeful of an amicable settlement that will leave all concerned satisfied."

It was contended by the chief that the bureau, under the law, was given the power to approve state programs on the basis of projects not included as well as those included.

Macdonald said he decided to hold his press conference after he had read speculation in some newspapers that a "truce" had been worked out between Georgia and the bureau. He told newspapermen that "with the conference so far as I'm concerned, the matter is ended."

After Talmadge had left Washington early yesterday Georgians seeking peace in the roads controversy apparently had no immediate suggestion for a settlement. Talmadge insisted after conferences with Macdonald that Ball's Ferry bridge, in Representative Vinson's district, was the crux of the trouble.

Antedates Bridge Row.

Meanwhile Representative Cox wrote Rexford G. Tugwell, under secretary of agriculture, stating "the quarrel antedates the dispute about Ball's Ferry bridge; but the bureau in insisting upon the adoption of this project has permitted it to be made to appear that existing differences originated with this dispute."

Cox added: "The bureau very clearly exceeded its authority in insisting that the highway board include this project in its program."

"If Governor Talmadge is trying to make politics of the state highway problem in so far as federal grants for highway purposes are concerned, this should be no reason why the Bureau of Roads should do likewise when all the while the public interest is suffering."

Approve or Disapprove Only.

"It is my idea that the bureau should call upon the State Highway Board to furnish its program and then approve or disapprove, and not try to

American Dancer Is Fined $3.30 For 'Outrage' on Morals of Paris

Judgment Against Blonde 'Artist' May Be Doom on Naughty City's 'Hot Spots'; 'Dance Artistic, But Too Naked,' Judge Rules.

PARIS, July 18.—(AP)—Miss Joan Warner, American blonde, learned today that it cost 30 francs, which is $3.30, to "outrage the morals" of Paris.

That sum was the fine fixed by a court which tried her for her nude dancing on complaint of the National Association for the Increase of the French Population.

Miss Warner was not present in court in time to hear her sentence pronounced, but when she did get there and was told of the fine, she explained: "Oh, justice works fast in Paris."

She immediately entered an appeal.

use its right of appeal to force the adoption of the Ball's Ferry bridge in order to fulfill a political promise that the bureau has made, and if you are familiar with the situation you know what is meant by "political promise."

"If the bureau wants to put federal engineers in Georgia to supervise and inspect road construction in order to see that contractors fulfill their contracts, then do it, but let the bureau stop short of trying to federalize the state set-up, that is, name the Highway Board, its engineers, fix working hours and pay. This is the business of the state and not that of the federal government."

"I note that you say that petitions sent here were the result of an organized effort and were not spontaneous. This is probably true. You state further that you are in receipt of a large number of communications upholding the stand taken by the department and very few are critical that responsible citizens have made the trip to Washington to assure the department of support and co-operation. I am prepared to concede all this, Mr. Secretary, and still I contend that the attitude of the department is most unpopular in Georgia, and this you may get from the press friendly to the administration."

"The department's way of handling this road situation in Georgia has caused most unfavorable criticism of the administration and is terribly embarrassing to those of us who are more interested in upholding it than in serving our own political needs. The position I take is not approved by either the state board or the federal bureau, but there is not the slightest doubt in my mind but that I am taking the right position and the one that is best for the administration."

Vinson Blames Governor.

Vinson, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, said Talmadge had arbitrarily rejected peace proposals offered by President Roosevelt and himself and the responsibility "lies fully on his doorstep."

"The whole thing is now in an impasse. Governor Talmadge would accept nothing from the White House and rejected every proposal offered. He has assumed a most stubborn attitude," Vinson added.

The Georgia representative said the from her conviction, posed for pictures, and went away again.

Joan's fine may set a precedent for the arrest of all the unclothed dancers in all the famous naughty spots of the French capital.

Judge Rebrasier ruled: "Mlle. Warner's dance is artistic but too naked. Stark nakedness is not permissible in public however artistic the dance."

Miss Warner was not the only one fined. M. Faudrin, the manager of the restaurant where the American girl danced, was ordered to pay 200 francs—about $15—because of his purely commercial spirit."

$19,000,000 was "blocked off only for the present."

The President and federal government officials have certainly done everything possible."

Vinson offered a solution plan to Talmadge but "I had no more luck with him than the president."

Every congressional district in the state with the exception of Vinson's sixth district is included in the program to be let for contract today.

$500,000 LOBBY BARED FOR ARMY'S BUSINESS

H. Payne, former assistant secretary of war, the night before the Roosevelt administration came into office. Asserting a power lobby expenditure of $300,000 created a capital fund, he said.

"And here we have you, a single firm, spending nearly $500,000 around Washington."

Whisky for Officers.

He said the sum included $85,000 for lawyer's fees, $48,000 for travel and $311,000 for personal expenses, and that some of the money went for gambling and flowers and whisky for army officers.

Silverman, sitting in his shirt sleeves and champing on a cigar, said he had household expenses of $25,000 to $30,000 a year and that he "knew" $25,000 last year for his daughter's wedding. He had estimated earlier that his salary was about $12,000 annually. He said he maintained residence here and in Bradley Beach, New Jersey.

His testimony was so colorful and spiced with profanity that McSwain admonished him once to "please use chaste language."

Today's hearing started up again a special inquiry which the house ordered the military committee to make into War Department business dealings.

Resents Insinuation.

Silverman refused to attach any special significance to obtaining the contract modification on the last night of the Hoover administration. The change removed from the contract for a year the clause forbidding him to sell army materials in the United States.

The witness said Brigadier Gen-

Police To Leave Coats At Home for Summer

Patrolmen and traffic officers may not be cooler, but they'll at least look cooler to the rest of the citizens of Atlanta as a result of the police uniform committee's action yesterday permitting them to doff their uniform coats.

The officers will wear white shirts, black ties, black Sam Browne belts with their regulation trousers. The uniform coat previously has been required by regulations and has been the subject of complaint by many officers, particularly those stationed in the downtown section where the pavements reflect the summer heat.

An attempt to include cork sun helmets in the regulation summer uniform was defeated. Officers are said to disapprove of this type of hat.

eral John L. DeWitt, former army quartermaster general, whom he termed a "Jew-baiter" who was "dishonest" behind his "official cloak," had "maliciously and viciously" held up the change and that he caused it "crash" through only on March 3, 1933.

He said "good whisky" made him a bit lazy about the events of March 3.

"Not too hazy to get the modification before Assistant Secretary of War Payne went out," McSwain observed.

"That's a dirty insinuation," Silverman snapped.

STATE POWER PROJECT ATTACKED IN CAROLINA

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 12.—(AP)—Constitutionality of the legislative act setting up a state authority to develop the Santee-Cooper hydroelectric and navigation project with a $37,500,000 PWA allotment was challenged today in the state supreme court.

Chief Justice John G. Stabler signed an order for the South Carolina Public Service Authority, created under the act; the Columbia Railway & Navigation Company, which owns the proposed site; and other interested parties to show cause why "the act creating this authority should not be adjudged invalid, unconstitutional, null and void."

Grand Family Reunion Is Under Way At Mr. and Mrs. Heard Dent's Home

By Sally Forth.

MR. AND MRS. HEARD DENT are enjoying the novel experience this week of making the acquaintance of a son and a granddaughter, neither of whom they had ever seen until last Monday, and of welcoming a daughter whom they had not glimpsed for six years. By way of explanation, a grand family reunion is under way at the Dent menage on Myrtle street, which began with the arrival on Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferguson and their 24-year-old daughter from Soochow, China.

You see, Mrs. Ferguson, as Miss Elizabeth Dent, sailed away to China mission fields six years ago. There she met and married Mr. Ferguson and to them was born an adorable daughter who bears the full name of her maternal aunt, Louise Dent. This is their first visit back to America, so it's a case of Elizabeth introducing her husband and her baby daughter to members of her family.

It seems that the former Miss Dent and Mr. Ferguson landed in China within a week of each other, both destined for the mission schools. The first duty of a missionary, it appears, is to attend a language school, where classes are made up of small groups of not more than four or five. The young couple were put in the same class. Their friendship soon developed into love and a subsequent engagement. They were married in the Moore Memorial church in Shanghai.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left their home in Soochow, where the former teaches English in the University, on June 19. They landed in Seattle on July 10 and crossed the continent, via Chicago and thence to Birmingham, Ala., where they visited Mr. Ferguson's sister, Mrs. Herbert Ethel. They have been granted a year's leave of absence, much to the delight of their family and their hosts of friends in America.

When Sally called Mrs. Dent to extend greetings to the Ferguson family, quite naturally she all excited over their arrival. "And whom does the baby resemble?" inquired Sally. "Oh, she is a darling," came back the fond grandmother's enthusiastic answer. "But she doesn't look like anyone. She is prettier than anybody I know."

THE inspiration for Walter T. Candler's trek across the Pacific is to become acquainted with his 8-month-old grandson, John Calhoun Wilson. The baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wilson, have lived in Kobe, Japan, since their marriage two years ago. Atlantans recall the brilliant wedding ceremony which was solemnized here at the Glenn Memorial church. As the former, Eugene Candler, the baby's mother was listed among Atlanta's most popular belles. She and Mr. Wilson are prominent members of the English-speaking colony in Kobe, the former being connected with the National City Bank in that foreign city.

Since the arrival last December of Baby Wilson, the proud Atlanta grandchild has planned the voyage to Japan. In fact, had business not prevented, Mr. Candler would have sailed immediately after he received the telegram announcing his grandson's arrival. He began making plans, however, to make the journey this summer. He sailed last Wednesday from Portland, Ore., aboard the steamer General Lee. Seventeen days are required to make the voyage to the port city of Japan, where the Atlanta will be met by Eugene and John Wilson. Sally wagers that Baby Wilson will await his grandfather's arrival on the docks at Kobe.

A LETTER written aboard the S. S. Conte Grande by Jennie Champion to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Champion, tells of an enjoyable voyage and of landing at Naples on July 14. From that point she will motor through Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Belgium, Holland and France, thence by airplane or steamer to England.

Jennie belongs to the fortunate class of this year's graduates to receive a European trip as a graduation present. Dr. and Mrs. Champion bestowed the marvelous gift upon their daughter because she graduated from Agnes Scott College with a splendid record. This is Jennie's second trip to Europe under the chaperonage of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Foster. She sailed from New York in July, thrilled with expectation of enjoying visits to the marvelous places she visited three years ago.

Institut Francais Concludes Sessions

Members of the Institut Francais of Emory University and friends enjoyed a concert by Hugh Hodgson as a final program of this season's session. Mrs. Hal Davidson talked on the composers Godard, Debussy and Chopin, after which Mr. Hodgson played, in his inimitable manner, the "Venetian Barcarolle" and "En Courant," by Godard, a Debussy "Arabesque" and a Mazurka, a Nocturne and several preludes by Chopin.

Monsieur Charles Loridans presented four medals awarded by himself and by Monsieur Andre de Laboulaye, French ambassador at Washington, D. C., to the four students of the Institut Francais who received the highest grades in competitive oral and written examinations based on French language, literature and civilization.

Receiving the Medailles Loridans were Marguerite Belote, a graduate of Agnes Scott College, teaching at Girls' High school, Atlanta, and Gordon Brown, graduate of Washington College, Washington, D. C., a teacher here at Boys' High school. The Medailles Laboulaye were awarded to Ruth Hill Bond, graduate of La Grange College, teacher in the Winterville High school, and to James Fleming, a graduate of Wake Forest College, N. C., teaching at Guilford College, North Carolina.

Goodrich White, dean of Emory University, commended the students and leaders of the Institut Francais for their work and energized Dr. Nolan Goodyear for his efforts which have resulted in two successful seasons of the Institut Francais at Emory University and plans already under way for a third season next summer.

Monsieur C. A. Rochedieu, visiting professor from Vanderbilt University, acted as interpreter. He gave a commentary on modern music and its tendencies, and those of art and literature, to proceed without form or design, in its blind striving for greater freedom.

Tomosha Club.

Alpha chapter of the Tomosha Club met Monday evening at the home of Billy Morris and elected the following officers: President, Billy Morris; vice president, Dan Sullivan; treasurer, Miss Mary Alice Boggs; secretary, Miss Virginia Oliver, and scribe, Miss Harriette Mozo. Other members of the chapter are Misses Hazel Corbett, Elizabeth Boggs and Bud Baird, Emory Morris, and Bob Steele. Plans for the club include a series of dances and parties during the season.

Lovely Alabama Guest and Charming Hostess

Miss Margaret Chenoweth, of Birmingham, Ala., pictured on the left, is being honored at a series of social affairs as the guest of Miss Alice Davis, right, at her home on Clifton road in Druid Hills. The lovely visitor and her charming hostess were schoolmates at Gunston Hall in Washington, D. C. Miss Chenoweth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Beach Chenoweth and Miss Davis is the daughter of Mrs. Henry W. Davis. Photo by Asano, Japanese photographer.

Will Sponsor Garden Party

The Maennerchor of the German American Club will sponsor a garden party in honor of Karl Fahe, musical director, this evening at 8 o'clock.

A 20-piece orchestra will furnish the instrumental music and the Maennerchor will sing. Ben Rillor, Russian singer, will be guest soloist. To bring back the old-fashioned German sociability, the entertainment committee will hold a series of such garden parties during the summer.

The German American Club was founded four and a half years ago by Germans, German-Americans and citizens of this country on non-political, non-sectarian lines for the purpose of increasing the friendship between the two countries through furthering German art, literature, music, singing and study of the German language, and old-fashioned sociability.

Psi Sigma Sorority

The Beta Chapter of the Psi Sigma sorority will entertain at a swimming party and picnic at Avondale pool this evening at 8 o'clock. Members and their escorts include Misses Anne Haddington, Graeme Strouss, Martha Gurey, Katherine Welsh, Eleanor Wenden, Crazhbel Reeves, Hilda Reed, Lou McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. F. LOVES TO EAT THIS
CEREAL, IT CHECKED
HER CONSTIPATION*

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Helped
Miss Kesterke

We quote from her letter: "Three years ago, I became constipated. I tried many laxatives. But as soon as I got used to each kind, I began to get the same trouble."

"Last summer I was on my vacation. They served Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I just loved it. I eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN every morning, and ever since I have not had to take any more laxatives."—Miss Margaret Kesterke, Cresskill, N. J.

*Due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle. It resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is often more effective.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

Lillian Mae Pattern

Summer Beauty Worries Can Be Overcome With a Little Care

By MIGNON.

One thing that has long since become a necessity all the year round is bath powder. A bath, a cologne rub (if you are lucky enough to have cologne) and then the inevitable bath powder. The boxes of bath powder are forever getting bigger, it seems to me. Some are too big and cost too much. Most women prefer to have a fresh box often, with the scent intact, than to keep on using the same box of powder for months at a time. In the first place the big powder puffs are hard to find, and you can't use one puff forever.

In warm weather powder does help to keep the body from perspiring. It isn't anything to stop perspiration, but the cologne or toilet water rub helps, as these products are mostly alcohol. Then the powder used after that certainly goes a long way toward making the body cool and comfortable. If you are one who bathes powder on in great quantities, you should, after swinging the powder puff, rub your body lightly with the palms of your hands to rub off any surplus powder. Then by the time you have done your underthings there won't be any more powder on your body. I know one woman who buys a baby hair brush, you know how soft they are. The kind that one buys for laundry. When she dusts off her neck and arms, many women use those brushes to dust off powder from the sides of the face where the light fuzz shows.

By all means get a good bath powder, with a delicate scent, and use it all through the hot weather. It gives that feeling of freshness every woman adores.

I can tell you of some of the loveliest of powders in delicate scents that will make you feel luxurious.

Friendly Counsel
By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Answers will be given in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

Most of my old group are married and have children. I have none, which big difference in our states puts a kink in many things. When these friends entertain me I have from four to six. This is not only expensive but some of these children are not well-trained and their sojourns in my house make me miserable. Of course I don't want to sit alone all the time but I would entertain a friend without having her whole family of children jumping on my furniture, playing with my ornaments and raising Cain in general. Positively when some of these children are coming to my house I don't dare take my best clothes. The friends I like best have the worst children. This is truly a problem with me. What have you to say about it?

DISGRUNTLED.

Answer:

Simply enough you can have a garden party for your friends' children, clean up the obligations at one fell swoop and thereafter invite your grown-up friends to your home without embarrassment at leaving out the children. They can be as rowdy as they like outdoors without doing any damage to your "pretties."

Even well-behaved children that we love get on our nerves when we are trying to carry on conversation with grown people, and when we don't love them and they are bad, to boot, they take the joy out of my party. It is seldom satisfactory to entertain children with their parents anyhow for they always take advantage of the situation. They are protected from correction by the presence of outsiders. They either hang around the grown people and restrict talk or they run riot and rule Cain. Wherever they are invited to a party without their parents they behave like little angels, deferring to their hostess and putting forth their best company manners. Then, if they happen to lapse, the hostess feels no embarrassment at calling them to order so long as their sensitive parents are not present.

If one wants to maintain friendship with papa and mama the best way to do it is to entertain them and the children separately.

SLENDERIZING FROCK CAN BE MADE SUITABLE FOR HOUSE OR STREET.

Pattern 2163.

There is no question but that every smart matron will want this frock that so effectively joins one down—there is merely the question of where it is to go. If it's to join the house dress group, then choose a practical printed cotton that stands tubbing well. You'll find the back bodice pleated ever so comfortable for active tasks and front and back skirt pleats allow plenty of width. Note the flattering softness that gathers into the yoke that runs clear down to the hem in a trim, slim panel. But if this frock is to be put in afternoon appearances, then choose a smart shantung, linen or printed crepe; and dress it up with bright buttons!

Pattern 2163 is available in sizes 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 takes 4 1/4 yards 36-inch fabric. Illustrations show step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Crackers Play Lookouts Tonight; McQuaig Reports Here

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph McGill

On the night of June 9, 1899, Jim Jeffries crawled inside the ropes at Coney Island to fight Bob Fitzsimmons and win from him the heavyweight championship of the world.

He had a theatrical tour and an exhibition fight tour in Europe—the usual program followed by a champion today. Our Mr. Jim Braddock is boxing exhibitions and, according to reports, looking very much out of condition and not much of a champion.

But Jim Jeffries signed to fight Tom Sharkey and when he began training he found something wrong . . . the explanation he gives in the current issue of the Satepost explains a lot of things about fighters who have come into the canvas trail since Jim Jeffries' time. He writes:

"When I got back to the U. S. A. and started working for the fight, I found out something more about being champion. I found that a guy that was up there couldn't work as well as a guy that was on his way. I worked hard for Sharkey. I put in seven weeks of the toughest kind of training. But I didn't eat it up the way I used to; it was just work. I guess the same thing happens to anybody that gets where he's going and has nothing to do but try and stay there. It gets to be just work."

It's applicable, that line of his about trying harder on the way up, in any line of endeavor. Too many of them confuse temporary success with the top. In the prize ring it is the sudden money and the ease and luxury which softens up the ambitions. Jim Braddock can get, for instance, as much for indorsing a pill or a sweater as a great many men get for toiling a whole year. And his manager even does the signing. It's that, I guess.

The fellow who can get a lot of zing out of his daily job won't meet the same fate. But the prize ring champions, almost without exception, begin to fade and soften the minute they reach the championship.

MAXIE SCHMELING UNSIGNED.

Max Schmeling reports from Germany that he has not signed a contract to fight anyone.

This is interesting but not as interesting as the announcements by Joe Jacobs, who once managed Schmeling, that Schmeling had signed to fight both Joe Louis and Max Baer. The announcements came on successive days. The first day Schmeling had signed to fight Louis. The next day he had signed to fight Baer. And now Schmeling himself says he hasn't signed to fight anyone. He ought to know.

It does make Joseph Jacobs look a little bad. At the Braddock-Baer fight Joe Jacobs sat just behind me. He began to grin broadly as the fight progressed. At the end of it he was chortling. At least I think he was chortling. I have never been quite sure if I've heard a chortle. But Joe Jacobs was gurgling with joy. "A set-up for my Max," he said.

The truth of the matter is his Maxie isn't his Maxie any more. The contract has expired. But Joe Jacobs has been getting free rides to Germany from the rival fight companies on the idea that he has great influence with Max Baer, who is very necessary to the fight trade just now.

It is my idea that Max Schmeling couldn't beat Joe Louis. He can't beat Max Baer if the big fellow will train. But he is a stand up fighter with a Sunday punch and he'd be almost a 10 to 1 bet to beat Braddock, the champion's style being just suited to him.

The German always was a canny lad. And he may not fight at all over here. The Louis fight would be his best financial bet. He could hardly win the fight but he could get the large end of the purse. At any rate it will be interesting to see with whom he does sign. And I am wondering how Joseph Jacobs can laugh off those two announcements.

THE GARDEN CONTROLS.

Madison Square Garden, which has a formidable rival in the milk fund organization, controls the heavyweight situation. They have the champion. And the championship fight is the big try. And they have Baer.

Maybe you say they can have Baer. That you don't want him. The fact remains he is a good fighter when he wants to fight because he has a punch. And the punch is the thing in the fight business.

It may be that Joe Louis, who is signed with the milk fund organization, will have to sign with the Garden to get his championship try. Unless, of course, the two of them can get together on a percentage business which they will do if it is necessary to save the money. The boys never yet have tossed away the money.

They can, if they wish, keep Joe Louis away from a title fight for another year by matching the winner of the Baer-Schmeling fight against Braddock next summer. Unless, of course, he signs with the Garden which he probably can't do because of his present contract. Public opinion may force a change for Louis. The public is very, very curious about the Detroit slugger who knocked out Primo Camera. He, too, has the punch. I saw, and heard them.

Meanwhile, if you are interested in the heavyweight business, it is most amusing to watch the jockeying as the boys fight for the chief tidbits in the trade. The tidbits, of course, are the matches which will pack them.

Louis, of course, can make important money right along by fighting fellows like King Levinsky. There is a curious fight. The Kingfish doesn't figure to last more than two or three rounds. But he can punch. He knocked Sharkey down when Sharkey was still pretty good. We may get a chance to see if Louis can soak up a punch.

DANNO O'MAHONEY.

Meanwhile, swapping over to the other business which is held in the ring, our own Mr. Henry Weber is back from St. Louis and Minneapolis where he went on the trail of Danno O'Mahoney, the new wrestling champion.

Mr. Weber saw the Irish champion work and declares he is a real attraction, so much so that he has signed him for an appearance in Atlanta within the near future. He hopes to put him on following next week's card but isn't sure.

"He is big and strong and while his style is entirely different from that of Jim Londos he still is a real champion," said our local entertainer.

BILL LEE A PROSPECT.

While at St. Louis and Memphis, Weber saw Bill Lee, last year's Alabama football captain who has turned wrestler. Lee is now in training and has been for some months.

"Lee reported to Charley Rentrop weighing 260 pounds," said Weber, "and has now trained down to 230. You may say he is a very definite championship prospect. That boy is learning fast and will be a real contender within a few years."

Lee weighed about 240 when he played football. The wrestlers are really in shape. That is why they can take the travel and the frequent matches.

JACOBS SEEKS BEST OFFERS FOR SCHMELING

No Decision on September Fight Has Been Made.

BERLIN, July 18.—(AP)—Rival New York fight promoters, frenziedly bidding for the services of Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, must spend at least another week on the anxious bench.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, now en route home on the liner George Washington, wired the Associated Press today Max has not made up his mind whether he'll fight Max Baer, deposed champion, or the negro sensation, Joe Louis, in New York next September.

Furthermore, the message said, no decision will be made until Jacobs reaches New York next week. Then he'll decide which match it will be advantageous for Max to accept and sign the German according to.

In denying an announcement by the 20th Century Sporting Club, of New York, that Schmeling has agreed to fight Louis in one of the New York ball pits September 17 or 18, Jacobs said he has authorization from Schmeling to decide between the offers of the 20th Century Club for a Louis fight and the Madison Square Garden Corporation's bid for a fight with Baer on September 26, the winner to get the first shot at James J. Braddock's heavyweight title next summer.

Both Mike Jacobs, representing the 20th Century Club, and James J. Johnston, Garden matchmaker, have announced they had Schmeling's agreement to meet their man. Joe Jacobs' announcement today apparently leaves the field wide open again.

Schmeling is away on another training trip, but Max Machon, his trainer, partly confirmed Jacobs' statement by saying the fighter has left everything in Jacobs' hands.

Sophie Tucker, Blues Singer, Seeks Braves

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 18.—(UP)—Sophie Tucker, veteran "red hot mamma" and blues singer, announced tonight that she has opened negotiations with President Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves, hoping to purchase the beleaguered club and "put it back on its feet."

"And if I take over the club," continued the plump old trouper, hitching up her blue slacks, "I'll go right after Babe Ruth and have him as my right-hand man in operating the Braves. The Babe and I have been friends for years—and he's too good a fellow to be getting kicked around the way he is."

Interviewed in her hotel room, Sophie explained that her attorney, A. A. Berman, of New York, had written a long letter to Judge Fuchs today, requesting a detailed statement on the club's financial situation, and what terms Fuchs and his associates would consider in selling.

"If Judge Fuchs makes me a fair offer, or is reasonable in his reply, I will go to Boston immediately and try to swing the deal as soon as possible. I would like nothing better than to own or have a large interest in the Braves—because I have followed them for years, and they are my home town club."

Fuchs said his telephone talk with Berman was the end of the Tucker-Fuchs negotiations. He had no intention of furnishing the blues singer the financial data requested in her attorney's letter.

Not for Sale, Says Judge Fuchs.

BOSTON, July 18.—(UP)—The Boston Braves are not for sale—said Sophie Tucker, Club President Emil Fuchs told the United Press tonight.

"I received a letter from Miss Tucker's attorney, A. A. Berman," said Fuchs at his Jamaicaaway home, "and I immediately got in touch with him by telephone at New York and told him."

"The Braves are not for sale," I further told him," said Fuchs, "that there have been too many people trying to cash in on the publicity incident to the contemplated sale of the club, and please not to bother me again."

Fuchs said his telephone talk with Berman was the end of the Tucker-Fuchs negotiations. He had no intention of furnishing the blues singer the financial data requested in her attorney's letter.

YATES WINNER IN TWO MATCHES

By Charles Grumlich.

COLORADO SPRINGS, July 18.—(AP)—Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, Neb., and defending champion Zell Eaton, of Oklahoma City, were blasted into the discard of the western amateur golf tournament today as Rodney Bliss, of Omaha, the medalist, led the way into the 36-hole quarter-finals.

Goodman, trans-Mississippi champion and former United States open title holder, was checked out by faulty putting on the back nine of his second round match and the sub-par rally staged by his opponent, Dave Goldman, of Dallas, Texas, coming in.

Goldman finished 2 up on Goodman with a birdie 3 on the home green.

Eaton was sidetracked, 5 and 3, this afternoon by Gus Moreland, the former Texan, now bailing from Peoria, Ill.

Eaton's game, troubled by wind and misjudgment of deceptive mountain distances, fell apart this afternoon after he breezed through the 18-hole first round with a 5-and-4 triumph over Nathan Grimes, of Denver.

The 22-year-old ousted champion was three under par when he closed out Grimes but he never got on his game against Moreland, 1932 western champion and former Walker cup player.

Moreland barely escaped elimination in the first round this morning, winning from Bob Coniff Jr., of Oklahoma City, Okla., on the 19th hole.

Charley Yates, of Atlanta, ousted Paul Leslie, Jefferson City, Mo., 2 and 1, in another second-round match. Yates defeated Harry Strausberger, Coffeyville, Kan., by the same score in the morning round.

The medalist, Rodney Bliss, of Omaha, gained the quarter-finals by beating Neil Smith, Dallas, 3 and 1, in the morning round.

UPPER BRACKET.

Gus Moreland, Peoria, Ill., vs. Charley Yates, Atlanta.

Jack Mackay, Tulsa, vs. Jack Gaines, Los Angeles.

LOWER BRACKET.

Rodney Bliss, Omaha, vs. Dave Goldman, Dallas.

DRAW FAVORS AMERICAN TEAM IN CUP MATCHES

Budge Entrusted With Opening Singles Assignment Against Germany

By Gayle Talbot.

LONDON, July 18.—(AP)—Donald Budge, the red-headed Californian who, within a busy month since reaching England, skyrocketed from comparative obscurity as a singles player to become the ace of the American Davis cup team, will be entrusted with the opening singles assignment in the interzone matches with Germany starting Saturday.

Meeting Heinrich Henkel, the weaker half of the German singles draw, the west coast phenom will be an overwhelming favorite to run the Stars and Stripes to the head of Wimbledon's flagpole.

The luck of today's draw, combined with Budge's sensational play in recent weeks, might be taken as an indication the American team is operating under a whole cluster of favorable stars and planets. It came out exactly as Joseph W. Wear, non-playing captain of the Americans, had hoped.

Budge and Henkel will be followed to the court Saturday by Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Texas, who meets Baron Gottfried Von Cramm, the German ace, in another singles match.

Monday will find Allison and John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia, teaming against Von Cramm and Kha Lund in doubles. The final singles encounters Tuesday will send Budge against the blond nobleman while Allison tackles Henkel.

Although none too sanguine about Allison's chances against Von Cramm, the American maestro is confident Allison and Van Ryn will capture the doubles for the Germans, with Allison clinching the series by defeating Henkel in the singles.

HOERGER, KIGHT SWIM WINNERS

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP)—The big and the little of it—bushy Leona Hoerger, 22, and tiny 11-year-old Mary Hoerger, of Miami Beach, Fla., ran off with the show today in the opening performance of the four-day national women's swimming championships at Manhattan beach.

Miss Kight, queen of the distance mermaids, opened the defense of her three national titles by setting up a new American record of 24 minutes 20.4 seconds for the mile, and giving every indication that she will do more time slashing when she gets around to the half and quarter-mile fields she rules.

The baby member of the cast, 74-pound Mary Hoerger, flipped of the three-mile springboard with such ease, confidence, and agility, that she completely won both the hearts of 5,000 spectators and the points of six judges to capture the event and become the youngest national champion in the history of the amateur athletic Olympic.

Oliver McKean, long-armed, lanky sprinter from Seattle, Wash., opened the title day by winning the 100-meter free-style for the second straight year in one minute, 10.2 seconds, exceeding Helene Madison's mark of 1:08.4 set in Los Angeles in 1932. Miss McKean had little difficulty catching Katherine Rawls, Miami Beach star, in the last 50 meters to win by about four feet, with Mary Lou Petty, of Seattle, third, and Miss Kight, fourth.

Oliver McKean, long-armed, lanky sprinter from Seattle, Wash., opened the title day by winning the 100-meter free-style for the second straight year in one minute, 10.2 seconds, exceeding Helene Madison's mark of 1:08.4 set in Los Angeles in 1932. Miss McKean had little difficulty catching Katherine Rawls, Miami Beach star, in the last 50 meters to win by about four feet, with Mary Lou Petty, of Seattle, third, and Miss Kight, fourth.

The baby member of the cast, 74-pound Mary Hoerger, flipped of the three-mile springboard with such ease, confidence, and agility, that she completely won both the hearts of 5,000 spectators and the points of six judges to capture the event and become the youngest national champion in the history of the amateur athletic Olympic.

MEMPHIS NOT 'TOPS' AS EQUINE MARKET

Local Dealers Scout Claim of Rival City for Largest Sales of Animals.

Memphis yesterday laid claim to the distinction of being the largest horse and mule market in the world, but local informed sources said last night those claiming the honor for the Tennessee city were "all wet."

During the 1934-1935 season Atlanta's horse and mule dealers handled more than any other market in the country. This, local dealers and railroad officials said, is conceded by every place, but Memphis—and they probably would if they were pinned down to it.

Memphis claimed the distinction on the basis of handling 13,432 head of horses and mules during January. While definite totals were not available last night, Atlanta sources, familiar with the situation said the Memphis informants had undoubtedly taken Memphis peak month for the season and based their claim on this fragmentary compilation.

They said they believed Atlanta would top Memphis even on the basis of a month by month compilation. The intensive selling season, lasting from September to the end of May, during which time approximately 80,000 animals were handled in Atlanta, with a money turnover of more than $13,000,000. Memphis, it is said here, never has been "it" in the horse and mule market. Atlanta replacing St. Louis as the largest center in the country.

HOLIDAY IS ORDERED IN MELON SHIPMENTS
A week holiday in the shipment of all except grade one watermelons from the southeastern states has been ordered effective July 20 by the watermelon control committee, Manager Thad Hucklebee announced yesterday. Shipments from the southeastern states will be prohibited from 12:01 a. m. July 20 until 12:01 a. m. July 27. The action was decided upon at a meeting of the committee in Columbia, S. C., Wednesday.

Hucklebee said the holiday was ordered because excessive rainfall has resulted in a number of diseased melons being placed on the market. He said it had been found that No. 2 grade melons had deteriorated to culls before they reached their destination.
